AN IMMENSE AREA OF PITTSBURGH IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

GREATER PITTSBURGH'S GREATEST LABOR DAY'S PARADE MARCHING PAST THE GAZETTE OFFICE.

WHOLE BLOCK CONSUMED BY RAGING FIRE

Flames Start in Transfer Company's Stables and Spreads to Many Valuable Buildings.

LOSS OF LIFE MAY BE GREAT

An immense area of the downtown portion of Pittsburgh was swept by flames early this morning, including manufacturing plants and dwellings between Spring alley and Liberty avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. The loss mounts into many thousands of dollars, 100 horses were burned to death, and it is reported that some persons were burned to death, though this is improbable.

Pittsburgh's most disastrous fire this year, and one that will probably exceed any this city has ever known for loss of life and monetary damage was discovered at 2 o'clock this morning. At 3 o'clock the entire block bounded by Liberty avenue, Spring alley, Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets was ablaze.

Among the buildings on fire were the Pittsburgh Switch and Signal Company's plant, at Liberty avenue and Sixteenth street, the Comstock Brass Manufacturing Company, No. 1509 Liberty avenue; the Thunder Manufacturing Company, Limited, No. 1507 Liberty avenue; five dwellings, a number of large storage houses and the Donaldson Transfer Company's immense stables.

The Donaldson, or Allegheny Transfer Company's stables contained 90 horses and a number of valuable wagons. The company not only did heavy hauling, but boarded horses of other teamsters.

The fire originated in the hay loft of the stables, a lantern being overturned into the inflammable material.

The old flouring mill at Fifteenth street and Spring alley was the next to go. It has not been operated for years, and was dry and constructed of tinder-like material. This was not valuable and the firemen turned their attention to more important property.

While it is impossible to give an accurate estimate at this hour, it is believed that $1,000,000 will not cover the loss.

PRIDE AND ENVY ALIKE DESERVING OF CONDEMNATION

President Roosevelt Puts Courtier and Demagogue, Unscrupulous Rich and Unscrupulous Poor in Same Class.

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 7.—"Envy and arrogance are but opposite sides of the same shield, but different developments of the same spirit. Fundamentally the unscrupulous rich man who seeks to exploit and oppress those who are less well off is in spirit not opposed to, but identical with, the unscrupulous poor man who desires to plunder and oppress those who are better off," said President Theodore Roosevelt in his speech today. He opened the New York state fair with an address, reviewed the parades of the trades unions and the National Association of Letter Carriers, and was the guest of honor at a dinner given by former United States Senator Hiscock.

The president refused to ride in a closed carriage and an open one was provided. At the fair grounds a tall wire fence was built on both sides of the walk to the stand from which the president spoke and no one was allowed within the inclosure. A close ...

PURCHASE OF TRACT MAY BE FOR HIGHLAND PARK

Schoenburger Property, Consisting of 105 Acres, to Be Bought in Ten Days—Bigelow Reported in Deal.

A great deal of mystery is connected with the sale of 105 acres in the Twenty-first ward, owned by the Schoenberger estate, which is to be consummated on September 19. Ostensibly the property is being purchased to be laid out in town lots, but it is said by real estate men, who claim to know, that Director E. M. Bigelow of the department of public works is the real purchaser, and that it is to be transferred to him just as soon as released by the present holders.

Real estate men have known for several years that Director Bigelow wanted to buy the land and sell it to the city as a part of Highland park. Much of the ground within the present park boundaries was purchased by him outright and then afterward sold to the city.

E. M. Beehen, of the firm of D. Beehen & Son, of the East End, is the ostensible buyer of the tract. A. Leggate & Son are conducting the deal for the Schoenberger heirs. The price of the tract is in the neighborhood of $1,000 an acre which will run the total cost up to $105,000 or higher.

When Director Bigelow first wanted the Schoenberger property there were two large tracts between it and Highland park which the city did not own. These were the Leach and Wilkinson properties, which combined make 90 acres. They were purchased by the Pennsylvania railroad company, it is claimed, at the suggestion of Mr. Bigelow, and then given to the city by the railroad to reimburse the city for taking a small strip of Highland park for the Brilliant cut-off now being constructed.

With the Leach and Wilkinson 90 acres and the 105 acres of the Schoenberger property the city would have over 200 acres to add to Highland park. All of this land lies east of Highland park and the Beechwood boulevard which parallels the course of the Brilliant cut-off through the park. The Brilliant branch and the boulevard run through a deep and wide ravine which it would be necessary to span with long bridges to connect the two sections of the park.

An order from the orphans' court is required before the purchase of the Schoenberger land can be consummated, and the real estate men conducting the deal state that they expect to have all the preliminaries arranged within 10 days.

trian proposal has probably fallen through.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Balkan situation shows no signs of improvement. Indeed, in Constantinople, it is now thought that war between Turkey and Bulgaria is inevitable, but the Turkish ambassador in London insists that hostilities can only result from an overt act on the part of Bulgaria.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that military attaches of Great Britain, Austria-Hungary, France and Russia have arrived at Monastir and will commence an investigation into the situation in all the disturbed districts of European Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 7.—Official dispatches from Monastir, dated August 31, September 1, 2 and 3, furnish details of numerous successes of the imperial troops in that district. Bulgarians entrenched in the hills between Lake Rodenik and the village of Yelendje were attacked by the troops and lost 35 men killed. The remainder of the band threw themselves into the lake and were drowned. At the village of Resna 22 insurgents were killed and around Florina 40 others perished.

Cotton at Beirut.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Beirut has been treated to a show of American naval force that has done its work, according to a cablegram received at the navy department today from Rear Admiral Cotton, and there really appears to be no need for the retention of the Brooklyn and San Francisco at that point. The president alone will decide the movements of Rear Admiral Cotton, as the squadron was ordered to Beorut under telegraphic orders from Oyster Bay.

The navy department today made public the following cablegram from Admiral Cotton regarding the Turkish situation, dated Beirut, September 4:

Vice consul shot at but uninjured. The Turkish officials have informed consul that four men have been placed under arrest because it is suspected that they had attacked the vice consul. I cabled Friday afternoon to the American minister at Constantinople the arrival of the United States squadron. The American minister has nothing to communicate. I have strengthened the American representatives' position by pronounced recognition of them.

The American consul and the vice consul accompanied me in my call on the Turkish governor and the Turkish general and were present at their call on board the Brooklyn. The Turkish officials very cordial. The Turkish admiral is here. The following Turkish ships are here: One small gunboat, one armored cruiser. Usual courtesies exchanged. Have conferred with the consul freely; will confer with other prominent American citizens Sunday and next day. I shall require a full statement in writing of the situation at Beirut. The presence of the American squadron inspires with confidence and feeling of security all foreigners and Christians.

LEVI P. LEITER'S NIECE IS KILLED IN RUNAWAY

Mrs. Frances McGraw of Hagerstown, Md., Thrown Out of Wagon on Her Head.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HAGERSTOWN, MD., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Frances McGraw, wife of Aaron K. McGraw, a clerk in the Hagerstown bank, was killed today in a driving accident near Sharpsburg, this county. She was aged 32 years and before marriage was a Miss Leiter. She was a niece of Levi Z. Leiter, the Chicago millionaire, and a cousin of Lady Curzon. Two children survive and several brothers and sisters.

This afternoon Mr. McGraw, his wife and child drove out to view the New Jersey monument, about two miles from Sharpsburg. After viewing the monument they started to drive back to town and had gone about 300 yards from the monument along Red avenue, when the horse shied and the wagon upset. The occupants were thrown out. Mrs. McGraw was killed instantly. The wheels of the wagon passed over the child, badly bruising it in a number of places. Mr. McGraw was rendered unconscious, but soon recovered. He was slightly injured by being cut about the head.

Thousands of persons were present and athletic sports furnished the amusement of the day. Several hundred men participated in the big street parade in Pittsburgh.

WORKMEN JOIN TO CELEBRATE

people to lend their ears to the speakers, a rush was made toward the stage.

Charles E. Winslow of the Carpenters' union, chairman of the committee on speakers, acted as chairman. The Rev. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, made a very brief invocation, after which William C. Long of Dallas, Tex., was introduced.

Cheers for Long Texas.

Mr. Long is president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union and is famous as an entertaining speaker. He is a characteristic southerner, although born in Pennsylvania, and the crowd regretted that his remarks were cut short by the change of program.

"Three cheers for the rebel," shouted an enthusiast as Mr. Long appeared. The suggestion was taken up and a hearty greeting followed. The speaker said he was pleased with the general turnout, but he was sorry to see only one carriage in the procession containing representatives of the telegraphers union. He recited the history of his organization and said that the telegraphers were compelled to work in the face of many drawbacks. He said one large company was working against the union, and he asked friends of organized labor not to patronize the concern. He said when he was elected president of the union in Washington last March there were 8,000 members. Since that time, he said, five new lodges had been organized, nearly 3,000 additional names being enrolled in membership.

David Tobin of the boot and shoemakers said that organized labor had done more for the workingman than simply to enable him to get better wages and shorter hours. He laid much stress on the means the union afforded toward encouraging workers to obtain their own homes.

He declared that non-union men at present were enjoying the fruits that organized labor had secured. While some blunders had been made in the ranks of the unions, he said, they were unavoidable, and the only way to organize and rigidly adhere to the rules.

Patrick Dolan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, the next speaker, told of Pittsburgh's great industrial growth, and said he hoped to see next year's labor demonstration twice as large as that of 1903. He said that it was particularly important that the laboring masses in Pittsburgh should be well organized to meet any emergency.

Attorney W. J. Brennen said that the welfare of a laboring community depended upon the stability of its organization. The Rev. Father Lawrence A. O'Connell of St. Paul's cathedral, spoke briefly on socialism and its ends toward the working masses. He said the only way to cope with oppression was in the thorough organization of the workingmen of the world. In conclusion, he congratulated the men of Pittsburgh for the work they had accomplished in this direction.

All the speakers were heartily applauded. Mr. Young made the closing address, and the way was cleared for the sports to continue.

T. J. SHAFFER APPEARS AT POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Head of the Amalgamated Association Unexpectedly Keeps Engagement.

T. J. Shaffer, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, whose absence yesterday upset the plan to make the Amalgamated Association men the second division in the parade, turned up yesterday at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., long enough only to make a labored speech and then to be lost again.

Mr. Shaffer has been strangely missing for about two weeks from his Pittsburgh headquarters and home. He had been originally on yesterday's program at Poughkeepsie as the orator of the day, but owing to the published accounts of his absence, the committee secured Herman Robinson of New York, secretary of the New York Central Labor Union, to take his place. Mr. Robinson was received by the committee and escorted to the Hudson River Driving park, where more than 1,000 people assembled.

Just before Mr. Robinson was introduced Mr. Shaffer arrived in a cab and made his way to the platform. He was not recognized by the crowd, but a flutter among the officers on the platform resulted in an uncertain cheer for Shaffer. He looked pale and showed signs of exhaustion.

After Mr. Robinson's address President Shaffer was introduced. In a husky voice he began:

"The thing I would most gladly do is to say nothing. Two years ago I made a mistake by trying to make 18,000 people hear, and as a result of such effort I am now in reduced physical condition. Nine months ago I made three speeches in one day, and I will not again allow people to use me up in that way."

That was all the reference he made to himself, and proceeded to make a brief but labored speech with evident pain.

When asked to make a statement, he said he was anxious to make one and arranged with the reporters to meet them at the Nelson house at 7 o'clock last night. He was driven away in company with John Bradley, a prominent local labor man. It was found that he had not been at the Nelson house at all, and a thorough search of Poughkeepsie failed to reveal any trace of either Mr. Shaffer or Mr. Bradley. It is believed that Mr. Shaffer hurried away from the city. From what direction Mr. Shaffer reached Poughkeepsie could not be learned.

AFFRAY MAY END IN DEATH

Couple Meets After Separation and Husband Shoots Himself After Firing a Bullet at His Wife—Woman Has Narrow Escape.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 7.—Anxious to end domestic troubles which had caused a separation between his wife and himself, Charles Brice, 24 years old, a member of a well-known Washington family, this evening attempted to kill the woman and take his own life. Mrs. Brice escaped injury, but her husband is at the point of death with a bullet wound under the heart.

Brice and his wife, whose maiden name was Goldie Welch, were married two years ago. Some time ago trouble arose between them and four weeks ago Mrs. Brice left her husband to go to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Welch, in Linn avenue. She took with her their 13 months-old daughter. It is said that Brice attempted repeatedly to effect a reconciliation, but all his overtures failed and he became despondent. Three weeks ago Mrs. Brice instituted divorce proceedings.

This afternoon Brice secured a revolver and walked into the Welch home and meeting his wife, said to her:

"Are you prepared to meet your God?"

The frightened woman cried out: "Not No!"

Brice said: "It is too late now," and quickly kissed her and the sleeping baby and then, it is said, fired at her. The bullet just grazed her cheek, and with a scream she sank into a chair. Brice sprang through the open door and pointed the weapon at his breast. Just as he pulled the trigger he stumbled and the bullet whizzed harmlessly to one side. Quickly picking up the revolver he again placed the muzzle to his breast and this time sent a bullet between the fourth and fifth ribs.

Brice was a member of the firm of Brice Brothers, in the tinning business, and has lived here all his life.

TERMS OF THE BIG COAL DEAL ARE ACCEPTED

the meeting yesterday, that progress is being made in the new deal for closer relations with the railroads.

He said also this: "When this matter is in shape for presentation it will be presented to the stockholders of the company for their approval. I want them to see and to know that it is the best thing for the good of everyone interested. It might be completed, perhaps, without the approval of the stockholders, but they shall have a chance to know it in full before it is carried through. It may not be ready for 30 days yet. There is much work in the plan."

"The exact nature of the plan will not be disclosed until it is told at the stockholders' meeting. Then, of corse, it will be made public. I can say, however, that it is not a matter of selling the stock of the company nor is it any blow at the Wabash. These reports are all wrong."

Not Worried Over Great Northern.

Mr. Robbins was asked about the new coal company call the Great Northern Coal Company, which plans to operate extensively in the Kentucky fields, and has arranged to build a railroad line 50 miles back from the Ohio river at Maysville to the company's mines. He said that he did not believe that a company obtaining its coal for river shipment from an expensively built railroad line, and requiring the handling of the coal twice to put it into the barges, could compete with coal loaded at river tipples directly from the mines. "If we are going to get scared at every ghost that shows up we might as well quit," he said with a smile.

Another leading coal man of Pittsburgh expressed the same opinion. "Ex-Senator J. N. Camden's connection with the company means that it is bona fide and I know that it has a large acreage of good coal," he said. "Still the facilities for transportation are so poor that the present owners were enabled to buy the coal at only a few dollars an acre, and it has been held as an investment rather than an operating proposition, I believe."

The monthly report of the net earnings of the Pittsburgh Coal Company as made yesterday shows that the company's July net earnings this year increased about 50 per cent over July of last year, and that the net earnings for the year to July 31 are nearly 100 per cent in excess of the net earnings for the same time last year. The figures follow:

	1903.	1902.
Month of July......	$ 612,070 04	$ 404,148 22
Year to July 31....	3,896,409 23	2,032,032 31

The net increase for July is $208,930 81 and for the seven months $1,864,376 16.

OFFERS NOT ACCEPTED.

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Not Sell His Shamrocks on This Side the Water.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Occupying the larger portion of today examining a bulky English mail, Sir Thomas Lipton spent the remainder of the day on board the Erin. At the Erie basin tomorrow the vanquished fleet will be inspected by its owner, who will arrange for the dismantling of the Shamrocks I. and III. preparatory to their start for the other shore about a week hence. There has been no satisfactory offer for the boats and their sale is doubtful.

From Washington tomorrow the earl and Countess of Shaftesbury are expected to arrive. They will resume their residence on the Erin as the guests of Sir Thomas. A visit to West Point is the next social movement for Wednesday.

CZOLGOSZ WAS INSANE.

A Noted German Expert Announces That Conclusion After Investigation.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(Special Cable.)—The noted physician, Prof. Bratz, chief of the Berlin Hospital for Epileptics, has just issued an article in "The Weekly Clinic" in which he proves on foundation of reports of American medical experts that Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley, was insane.

The professor states that it must be considered beyond all doubt that Czolgosz had been suffering with dementia praecox for some time preceding the murder and consequently should never have been electrocuted. Several Berlin newspapers print this article in full, but almost all add that there is quite a possibility that the professor, who never personally saw the notorious murderer, may be mistaken in his conclusions.

W. C. T. U. Declares Recent Order is Opening Wedge for Canteen.

OLD FIGHT TO BE RENEWED

Anti-Canteen Element Will Fight Vigorously Any Attempt at Repeal of Law by Next Congress—Gen. Grant's Testimony Encourages Those Who Favor It.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 16, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.

A fight is in prospect over the order just promulgated at West Point which permits the cadets to smoke. The prohibition of the use of the weed at the Military academy has been in effect for years and although the embryo officers have indulged in pipes and cigarettes on the sly the removal of this prohibition is stirring up the reformers, who look upon it as the opening wedge to the re-establishment of the canteen in the army and possibly of permitting a bar at the military school. There are already indications here of a national protest by the Woman's Christian Temperance union and other societies against the continuation of the privilege just extended to the West Point cadets.

The whole principle of the canteen fight, W. C. T. U. members say, is bound up in this action at the military school, with an added element of a blow at the work against the use of stimulants among minors and especially students now under way in all parts of the country.

On the other hand, any attempt to rescind this recent amendment of the smoking rule will be resisted to the Unit. Army officers make the same plea here as for the canteen. The cadets are to be permitted pipes alone and it is urged that this will militate against the use of cigarettes. In this same connection it is expected that a determined attempt to have the anti-canteen law repealed during the coming congress will be made. The report of Gen. Grant of the department of Texas, himself a total abstainer, in which he urged the re-establishment of the canteen for the protection of his men, has been pounced upon by advocates of repeal as heavy ammunition for their cause.

TWO GRAINS OF RADIUM ATTRACT THE CURIOUS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Big crowds thronged the fourth floor of the Museum of Natural History this afternoon to look at two grains of radium on exhibition there. It was inclosed in a small glass capsule resting on cotton under a glass case. An attendant kept explaining the powers of the radium and a policeman kept the crowd moving. The radium is worth four times the first quality of perfect diamonds. The two grains are worth about $300.

Women's New Autumn Kid Gloves.

The kid glove patronage of this store, especially at the Women's Kid Glove Counter, always did have a vigorous growth. Foreseeing the great demand this Autumn and coming Winter, we bought a greater variety than in any former season. Our lines begin with the finest kid glove ever seen in Pittsburg for $1 a pair and run through the various grades up to those magnificent gloves of Jouvin & Cie, and also that other magnificent French glove, the Reynier, for both of which we are sole agents in Greater Pittsburg. Besides those world-renowned gloves we also carry such noted makes as Dent's, Fowne's and Perrin's, as well as other well-known makes.

Our new lines of Kid Gloves for $1 comprise a special number in women's 2-clasp Glace Kid, all the French shades, embroidered backs. This is a remarkable glove for the money. There is seldom so perfect a fitting glove for $1.

For $1 we are also showing a very attractive line of women's heavy Cape Gloves with strapped seams. This is strictly a glove for street wear, and is very stylish in appearance.

For $1.50 a pair we are showing women's 2-clasp pique and broad seam Gloves in real French kid—all colors and their shades.

New Drapery Materials.

The first sign of Autumn puts women in the notion of looking up the new drapery stuffs, and we are glad to say our lines are ready, and are exceptionally complete, comprising Silks, Cretonnes, Dimities, Linens and Damasks.

New Drapery Silks in new designs and new colorings—floral effects, geometrical effects, Oriental effects and Art Nouveau effects—at 50c, 75c and $1 and $2 a yard.

New plain Drapery Silks, admirable for mantel drapes and for the filling of screens, at 50c, 90c, $1.50 a yard.

New Slip Cover Stuffs in greatest profusion, English striped Dimities, Belgian Linens, Denims, Taffetas, Cretonnes, materials especially selected by our representatives when abroad, and not at all expensive.

By the way, we make up Slip Covers to order, and we are now getting very busy in this class of work. If you will place your order now we can assure prompt delivery, either at once, or we can make up the covers and hold until after housecleaning.

Window shades to order is another of our specialties. It takes some little time to measure an entire house and get the shades ready. So if you will let us have your order now we will make your shade and hold until you are ready to have us fit them to your windows.

No trouble to give you an estimate on the cost of Shades and Slip Covers.

BIGELOW MAY BE DISAPPOINTED

Has No Assurance That Republican State Candidate Will Accept Citizens Indorsement.

CHAIRMAN FORD EXPLAINS

Local Organization Will Be Able to Show Why the Proffered Aid Should Be Declined—Fourteenth Ward Citizens Angry.

While the Citizens county committee will today indorse the Republican state nominees, it does not necessarily follow that these candidates will be on the fusion ticket. Thomas S. Bigelow claims that they will not decline the proffered support, but he has no assurance from them or the state organization that his guess is a correct one.

The Allegheny county Republican organization will endeavor to show the candidates and the party managers that the indorsement by the three-fifths Democratic party should not be accepted. It is a question which will be brought before the Republican state committee, and the local Republicans believe that they will be successful in securing a declination of the Bigelow indorsement.

Bigelow is endeavoring to give the impression that Senator M. S. Quay is friendly to the Citizens this fall and that his influence will be exerted toward preventing the state candidates from declining the Citizens indorsement. Thomas J. Ford, chairman of the Republican county committee, had this to say yesterday about Quay and the position of the state candidates:

Position of the Republicans.

"The Republicans of this county are capable of managing their own affairs. Senator Quay is a resident of Beaver and I think that he will not interfere in our campaign. Should the Citizens indorse the Republican state nominees, we will enter a protest with the state committee. We have good grounds for demanding that the state candidates do nothing which might be detrimental to the interests of the local ticket.

"Our county committee has adopted a set of rules which are absolutely fair. The primary doors were opened to all persons who had voted for Pennypacker at the election last fall. It makes no difference what county or city tickets they last voted. If the Citizens do not accept this opportunity to participate in the Republican primaries, it is because they know that they are in the minority.

"Now, the Citizens contend that they control 85 per cent of the election boards of the two cities. The Republican members of the election boards constitute the primary election boards. If there are any vacancies on the board those first assembled at the polls on election day elect men to fill the vacancies on the board. So that the Citizens in this case have equal chances with the Republicans.

"There is absolutely no reason why everybody should not enter the Republican primaries under these conditions and we propose to set forth these facts before the Republican state committee."

Major Stewart Willing.

Maj. Robert E. Stewart returned to the city yesterday, and when asked if he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for district attorney, he stated that he had not fully determined what he would do.

"Fifteen years ago," said he, "I was more anxious to hold the office than I am now. I still believe the duties of a district attorney would be congenial to me. To accept a nomination would require some personal sacrifices, and there are several matters I will have to consider before I could make an announcement of my candidacy. If I thought that I would be of service to the Republican party I would feel like giving the question favorable consideration."

Thomas M. Marshall, another prospective candidate for district attorney, also returned from his vacation yesterday. He has not decided whether or not he will enter the contest.

Some of the friends of William M. Hunter were last night urging him to be a Republican candidate for district attorney. He said that he had been offered all the financial assistance necessary if he could land the nomination.

Trouble in the Fourteenth.

The recent statement of Thomas S. Bigelow about the ease with which the factional troubles in the Fourteenth ward could be settled has stirred up the Moore crowd. Bigelow remarked that W. J. Moore wanted a job, and if it was necessary one would be found for him. When William H. Stevenson, common councilman from the Fourteenth, was asked about the Bigelow statement he said:

"Mr. Bigelow does a great injustice to Mr. Moore by intimating that he could be bought with a city position. Mr. Moore is not here to defend himself. He is a man of high character. Although he may desire a position, there is nothing of that sort that would take him out of his course or induce him to go back upon his principles."

The faction led by Capt. E. Y. Breck is giving the impression that it will be recognized by Chairman M. A. Verner of the Citizens county committee. This fact has angered the Moore men. The friends of Stevenson are also convinced that it is the intention of the Bigelows to get an organization in the ward, to be used to fight the re-election of the councilman in February. Stevenson has caused the Bigelow machine a great deal of trouble and it wants to get rid of him.

GUFFEY INVESTIGATED ALASKA OIL FIELD

Abandoned the Project Because of the Lack of Transportation Facilities.

Pittsburgh oil promoters do not agree with the glowing reports of rich oil discoveries in southern Alaska. The dispatches recently have contained accounts of the finding of great fields of petroleum in Alaska which rival those of Pennsylvania, also stating that Pittsburghers were in the scramble to secure these valuable tracts.

Three months ago the J. M. Guffey Company made an investigation of the Alaskan fields, sending a man to the far north for that purpose. He reported that the field was not yet worth working and was too far isolated to transport oil either to the seacoast or by rail.

The nearest point of the Alaska field to the coast is seven miles, and there are no railroad connections in any direction.

The Guffey company promptly decided that it did not want to take any chances under the existing conditions and made no effort to secure any options. The largest company operating in the Alaskan field is Mackensie, Mann & Co. of Toronto, Canada, which has about 25 or 30 square miles. Mackensie, Mann & Co. drilled their first well in Alaska a year ago.

Must Wait Seven Months.

Work on McKeesport's new postoffice building will not be started for about seven months, according to a letter received by Postmaster W. V. Campbell of McKeesport from the postal authorities at Washington, D. C., yesterday. Recently $125,000 was appropriated for the erection of the new building.

BIG STOCK BUSINESS REQUIRES MORE CAPITAL

Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company to Double Capital Stock—Another Bridge to Herrs Island Is Necessary.

Plans have been prepared by the Pennsylvania railroad for a second steel bridge from Herrs island to Allegheny, so as to allow a free movement of freight from the large stock yards, east, via the West Penn to Blairsville intersection. The bridge will cost $150,000. In keeping with the improvements on the island, the Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company will increase its capital stock from $400,000 to $800,000.

Samuel W. Allerton, who with W. V. Callery, practically control that company, was here yesterday at the opening of the stock yards and during the day conferred with Pennsylvania engineers in regard to new work. The capital stock of his company, he said, will be increased in order to operate the new packing house which is now being built on the island at a cost of $400,000.

The Pennsylvania railroad is now building a steel bridge from Allegheny to the lower end of the island, and this structure will take the place of the present bridge at that part of the island. All freight consigned to the east, however, has to be backed on to the tracks of the West Penn, and in order to obviate this a second bridge will be constructed at the upper end of the island. This bridge will practically parallel that of the Pittsburgh Junction road from the island to the main land. Its total length will be 400 feet, and the channel span will be 240 feet. B. E. Rhoads, assistant engineer of construction of the Pennsylvania, has drawn the plans under the direction of Col. Crawford.

That part of the island owned by the Pennsylvania and by the Baltimore & Ohio roads has been leased to Mr. Allerton and will be operated by him and his associates in the interest of the joint owners. The Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company, with its plants, covers a large part of the island and at present it is building an addition that will take up all of the remaining space. When the new packing house is completed the company will have a capacity of 1,200 head of cattle per week, and this increase in business will be responsible for the doubling of the capital stock.

Mr. Allerton was authority for this statement yesterday. "Our capital stock," he said, "is not large enough to operate the new packing house. I have seen Mr. Callery, the president, and we have agreed to double our capital."

MRS. MAGEE WILL LIVE IN EUROPE

She Returns Next Week to Prepare for Her Permanent Residence Abroad.

IS TO ABANDON "THE MAPLES"

Famous Old Homestead Will Probably Be Leased—Wife of Late Senator Follows Example of Other Wealthy Pittsburghers—Remains Here Two Months.

Mrs. Christopher L. Magee, who has been abroad the past year, is now on the ocean on her return home and will arrive in Pittsburgh early next week. Mrs. Magee's stay in the city will be short, for she returns to Pittsburgh for the sole purpose of packing up her effects and closing her business affairs preparatory to going back to Europe this fall and remaining there for the balance of her life.

Mrs. Magee has not yet fixed any particular place as her permanent abode, but will probably spend the first year of her residence abroad traveling. She has made several trips to Europe and each time Pittsburgh has become less attractive to her. Her decision to live permanently in Europe was reached on her last visit abroad. She went through the Holy Land and Egypt, and spent last winter in Rome. She will probably spend her winters hereafter in Rome or southern France, and her summers farther north.

In changing her residence to the other side of the Atlantic Mrs. Magee is following the example of other wealthy Pittsburghers, notably Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. Schenley and Henry Phipps.

It was stated yesterday that Mrs. Magee would not remain in Pittsburgh longer than two months. She is expected to rent "The Maples," the old Magee homestead where she and her late distinguished husband lived for so many years.

According to the statement of one who is well acquainted with the affairs of the Magee estate, the Magee homestead can not be sold and it can not be used for the purposes of the Elizabeth Steel Magee Memorial hospital, which was provided for in the will of the late C. L. Magee, until Mrs. Magee's death.

THE SCHUMANN

SOON BECOMES YOUR FRIEND

The Schumann piano is a high grade instrument, and yet the price for which it sells is moderate. The Schumann has a sweet, sympathetic tone which attracts all lovers of music and critics alike. It is a delight to hear anyone play the Schumann. It is in every sense of the word a magnificent piano. It is not a new make but has withstood the test of time and opinion.

There is really no need to pay a high price for a piano when the Schumann will fill all requirements at much less cost.

Admiral Cotton has cabled from Beirut that the presence of the American squadron inspires with a feeling of security all foreigners and Christians. He reports that the vice consul was shot at, although he escaped injury and four persons have been arrested on suspicion of connection with the affair. The attempt that is being made to belittle the whole business and to ridicule the administration for its prompt action will not gain any support from Admiral Cotton's account of the situation. Turkey is now the danger point of Europe and that is where our European squadron should be. The prompt action taken by the administration will have a thoroughly good effect in enhancing respect for American nationality.

A marvelous story comes from the oil fields of Texas, telling how the wicked old Standard Oil Company has been pumping salt water from the Gulf of Mexico into the big wells at Beaumont. We do not know who perpetrated this monster on the Ft. Worth paper that gave it circulation, but it has added to the gaiety of the oil regions in no small degree. Aside from the fact that the Standard Oil Company has no trunk pipe lines to the gulf the Texas paper should have known that pipe lines are not connected with oil wells and that it would be impossible to flood them with salt water through the tanks. If there is much salt water in the Beaumont wells it has come in at the bottom and signalizes approach to exhaustion of the field. As a yarn, however, this one is a whopper of such proportions that it could deceive only the tenderest of the tenderfoot tribe.

The reaction of public sentiment against lynching, powerfully accelerated by President Roosevelt's powerful letter, has already borne fruit in actual convictions for lynching. Heretofore the sentiment which prompted the outbreak of lynching has been generally strong enough to prevent any punishment of the acts of the lynchers through the ordinary procedure of justice. But recently at Danville, Ill., a number of persons were indicted on charge of "assaulting the Danville jail with the intent to commit murder," and verdicts of guilty have been rendered against 12 persons brought to trial. Such action will have a wholesome effect. Prof. James of Harvard recently expressed the opinion that lynching would not be checked until some prominent citizen was hanged for it. A batch of convictions like those obtained at Danville, if exemplary sentences are inflicted, will undoubtedly exert a cautionary influence upon mob tendencies.

The investigations of the state authorities have revealed a great prevalence of adulteration of food and drink. Embalming fluids are used in milk to keep it from turning sour so that stale milk can be sold as fresh. Beer has been found to contain benzoic and salicylic acid. A beverage which is reported to have an extensive sale in Western Pennsylvania counties has been found to contain sodium salicylate and aniline dye. Strawberry preserves have been found to be composed mainly of starch, glucose and aniline dye. Hamburg steak and sausage have also been found to be largely chemical preparations. These discoveries have been made in goods actually going into consumption, the samples having been obtained by ordinary purchase. The people are helpless against such impositions, as it is impossible for the ordinary consumer to analyze the supplies sent by the milk man, the grocer and the butcher. The state authorities are performing a valuable service to the community by their efforts to reach and punish vendors of adulterated food supplies.

Reports of events in Macedonia are conflicting and untrustworthy. The statement emanating from Sofia to the effect that the Turks have burned or otherwise destroyed all the villages near the Greek frontier is quite improbable. That part of Macedonia has a Greek population which is more friendly to the Turks than to the Bulgarian insurgents, and just at present the Turkish government is cultivating the friendship of Greece. It is the part of Macedonia farthest away from Bulgaria, and the whole story sounds like the invention of the press committee of the revolutionary organization. A far more authentic piece of news is contained in a consular report from Salonica, stating that the insurrection in the Monastir district has been practically stamped out, the work being done with such ruthless severity that it seemed as if it was the object to exterminate the entire Christian population. This is the district where the revolutionary bands first became prominent and where they accomplished various dynamite outrages and acts of incendiarism. Turkish villages were attacked and every possible means employed to throw the country into disorder. That the Turks in their turn have done some terrible work is quite in accord with their character and previous behavior in such circumstances.

The Dispatch announces that the Republican state nominations "will appear upon both the regular and the Citizens columns." The Dispatch is behind the times, or it would have known that there will be no party columns on the ballot this fall, and no candidate will appear more than once no matter how many times nominated. The Citizens party organization will doubtless indorse the Republican state ticket, but that will not make them Republican, as their action is meant simply as a straddle. The different party organizations will be provided with a party square, a cross mark in which votes the entire party ticket. The Democratic party will have a square, a cross mark in which will count for the Democratic state ticket and the local fusion ticket, so that it is to the interest of the Citizens party to provide another party square, a cross mark in which will count for the Republican state ticket and the local fusion ticket also. But the Citizens party will not have a separate column, as the Dispatch imagines, in which the names of the Republican state nominees will appear. There will be a Democratic party square and a Citizens party square, but the only square that on its face indicates that it carries with it the entire party ticket is the Republican party square, and that is the square Republicans will use.

A Model Address.

President Roosevelt's Labor day address at Syracuse is a model of sound advice and plain statement. It is open to the charge preferred by his critics on former occasions that the president utters many self-evident truths. That is really a chief charm of his oratory, that he utters what is known of all men and places it in its true relation to the daily lives of all of us. He never soars above the common sense in his public addresses, yet he touches deeply to the heart of the affairs that most concern this nation. President Roosevelt could have said nothing more true or more timely than the words of this paragraph, which hark back to the foundation stone of equality:

> We can keep our government on a sane and healthy basis, we can make and keep our social system what it should be, only on condition of judging each man, not as a member of a class, but on his worth as a man. It is an infamous thing in our American life, and fundamentally treacherous to our institutions, to apply to any man any test save that of his personal worth, or to draw between two sets of men any distinction save the distinction of conduct, the distinction that marks off those who do well and wisely from those who do ill and foolishly. There are good citizens and bad citizens in every class as in every locality, and the attitude of decent people toward great public and social questions should be determined, not by the accidental questions of employment or locality, but by those deep-set principles which represent the innermost souls of men.

There is in that paragraph a volume of wisdom, a tone of the justice that should abide between man and man and an absolutely clear expression of the speaker's attitude toward the much agitated "labor question." Following, as it did, a frank declaration of the public indebtedness to the farmer and wage earner, the two classes upon whom the national prosperity depends, it makes plain the relations of one citizen to another as they should be.

Following this theme President Roosevelt made his attitude toward corporate wealth no less clear. The corporations, too, he declared, must be judged by what they do as individuals and they ought to give support to the law which is their only support. What he said in this connection may be fairly taken as his reply to the threat that Wall street and other interests resent the activity of the administration in procuring the enactment of laws and enforcing those on the statute books. For example:

> In his turn the capitalist who is really a conservative, the man who has forethought as well as patriotism, should heartily welcome every effort, legislative or otherwise, which has for its object to secure fair dealing by capital, corporate or individual, toward the public and toward the employe. Such laws as the franchise tax law in this state, which the court of appeals recently unanimously decided constitutional—such a law as that passed in congress last year for the purpose of establishing a department of commerce and labor, under which there should be a bureau to oversee and secure publicity from the great corporations which do an interstate business—such a law as that passed at the same time for the regulation of the great highways of commerce so as to keep these roads clear on fair terms to all producers in getting their goods to market—these laws are in the interest not merely of the people as a whole but of the propertied classes. For in no way is the stability of property better assured than by making it patent to our people that property bears its proper share of the burdens of the state; that property is handled not only in the interest of the owner but in the interest of the whole community.

The president's reference to the currency question fitted admirably with the general theme of his address. He congratulated his hearers upon having the largest volume of currency in the history of the nation and upon the fact that every dollar of it is as good as gold. And he declared that any change that is made—"and there will be no revolutionary changes"—must keep in mind the maintenance of this high standard and the final redemption of every note in coin of full value. That is not an explicit program for legislation, but it emphatically marks limitations beyond which the congress may not go.

In brief, President Roosevelt made a good, wholesome Labor day speech that will profit all who read it at length and study it carefully. There is meat in every line. It is an invitation to independent thought and a call to equal and exact justice. There is in it not one word of surrender to the displeasure of Wall street, nor one thought of capitulation to blind prejudice against wealth, irrespective of its use.

Great Labor Day.

Labor day was celebrated in Greater Pittsburgh and the surrounding region yesterday as never before. The parade was an imposing spectacle of the muscle and brawn that have done so much to make the greatness of this region. The exercises at the park were appropriate, including much oratory extolling the dignity and nobility of labor. This holiday since its establishment has been growing in popular favor and has now taken on its true significance—that of celebrating the power and greatness of labor. As the years go by it will no doubt broaden in character. Already it is a bank holiday and a day off for the brokers of the speculative exchanges, who are quite commonly held to have no connection whatever with labor as represented in the parade.

It was not really necessary to set apart a day for labor to induce in this country a proper appreciation of it as the foundation of all material progress. That fact is indicated by the readiness of all classes to accept it at once as a national institution. No long campaign of education was needed to secure toleration for labor's participation in its own glorification. On the contrary, bankers, merchants, manufacturers and professional men have joined readily in paying tribute to labor's high place among the factors of national prosperity and success. Though not invited, they have made the day as much their own as that of the organized trades, and in truth they all do labor together as harmoniously as they celebrate.

There has been some effort to narrow the significance of the day, both in and out of the ranks of organized labor to a mere recognition of the unions. It is more than that. It is, indeed, a recognition of the right of labor to organize, but it is also a day apart for instruction in the larger aims of society and the functions of government. It is a day not for the propagation of schisms and quarrels, but for the union of all honest, useful labor and for the fraternity of the toilers with hand and head. The day is entitled to a red-letter place on the calendar.

Alaska as a Rival.

The report comes from Tacoma that petroleum and coal experts recently returned from Southern Alaska predict that country will rival Pennsylvania in the richness and volume of coal and oil resources. Three oil strata have been pierced and the drillers are looking for the fourth, while tests of the oil so far made are said to show a larger percentage of paraffin than the best grades of Pennsylvania oil contain. An anthracite coal field has also been found, according to reports, which covers at least 800 square miles and ranges in thickness from 8 to 70 feet.

For the sake of Alaska it is to be hoped these reports may not prove to be exaggerations of prospectors and promoters. A prosperity builded upon coal and cemented with oil is certain to withstand rough weather better than one reared upon crumbling gold ores. There is no reason for doubting that Alaska is rich in these mineral products, but there is reason for doubting the reports of their particularly valuable properties. Oil is found all along much of the Pacific coast, valuable chiefly as fuel. Petroleum has long been known to exist in Alaska, but neither its quality nor its quantity have been fully determined. Coal also has been found in many places, widely separated, and has occasionally been used for coaling purposes by whalers and by revenue cutters, but its quality has been of the poorest. Much money has been sunk in mines that yielded only lignite, good enough to cook the miners' dinner, but too full of sulphur to be available for raising steam. It has been on a par with Alaskan iron, which is also of very inferior quality.

So it seems probable that the so-called experts may be letting their imagination run away with them. But even if they should be correct in all their estimates it is out of the question for Southern Alaska to rival Pennsylvania. Alaska will never be in it as a competitor of the Pittsburgh district.

Anthracite Mine Policy.

The review of the coal trade, issued annually by Frederick E. Saward, editor of the Coal Trade Journal, has just appeared. Naturally, special attention is given to the anthracite coal strike and its consequences, one of which, it is said, will be an increased use of machinery. Mr. Saward, whose information may be regarded as authentic, says that "electrical machinery will be introduced, which must tend to reduce the number of help above ground, and if there is a desire for more wages by the miner, employment below ground can be arranged so that the individual, free from entangling alliances, will profit in increased earnings." The reasonable construction to put upon this guarded language is that the wage scale produced by the arbitration of the coal strike will be rendered obsolete by the introduction of new conditions of output.

Nowhere is machinery more socially advantageous than in replacing human labor in hazardous and unwholesome employments. If the anthracite mine owners have been sickened with the results of their importations of European labor and are now turning their attention to mining by machinery, the ultimate result will be a social advantage. But unless more tact and shrewdness are used in managing the change than were shown heretofore in dealing with the labor situation, there may be a fresh crop of trouble in the anthracite region. The organization of mine labor has been made the means of securing more peaceful conditions in the bituminous fields than previously existed, and if like ability to recognize facts and act accordingly existed in the anthracite region similar results might be obtained.

Emil Berliner, the Wilkesbarre inventor who promises to beat Santos-Dumont and Prof. Langley in flying through the air like a bird, has really discovered a new principle in aerial flight, it seems. He calls attention to the important function of the bird's tail in aiding its ascent. We have had flying machines with wings scientifically constructed upon the plan of the bird's wings, but inventors have discarded the tail as a useless and cumbersome appendage. Mr. Berliner proposes to furnish his airship with a tail—in other words, a movable aeroplane with lifting power. If he succeeds, visitors of the St. Louis show may be treated to the edifying spectacle of the tail wagging the aeronautic dog.

John Temple Graves is a hot southern gentleman who has attracted some attention by advocating the deportation of southern negroes to any old place outside the United States, at an estimated cost of $400,000,000. But wouldn't it be cheaper and better to induce Mr. Graves to go away? People down south who raise crops and have work they want done could better afford to pay Mr. Graves' expenses out of the country than lose their labor supply.

Our sharpshooters at Sea Girt will show the marksmen of foreign lands that Yankee eyes and hands are as keen and steady as on the day of Bunker Hill. What is worth shooting at is worth hitting, has been the motto of our riflemen from Daniel Boone to Buffalo Bill.

That stone figure 12 feet high unearthed in West Liberty is probably the statue of some prehistoric Bigelow placed in the Mound Builders' national park. Such statues are often put into such places, and then the people of after ages wonder how they got there.

Notwithstanding the assertion of a contemporary that "the consular service has mainly been pasturage for the spoils system" it is a fact that whenever an emergency arose where there happened to be a United States consul he has been equal to it.

The announcement of the proprietor of the fusion party that "we will have a platform and a good one," creates no surprise. It isn't the platforms of the fusion party which arouse the popular indignation, however, but what happens to them.

LABOR.

[illegible]

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Have you found your life distasteful?
[illegible]
—Browning.

How is it with you, son of toil? You stepped splendidly yesterday, and walked with the steady tread of one whose shoes are paid for, and who had meat and bread in store for supper. Was your heart as light as your step?

It was Labor day—the day selected by those who work for a living as a celebration day.

Is there not labor enough for every day in the year without spending one to celebrate the labor?

Is labor such a delightful thing that it is worth while celebrating it?

Is not labor the chief of all the curses that followed Adam's fall?

What, then were you celebrating?

There has been a great deal of fine talk about labor and the laboring man. Much of this has been said by those whose hands showed few marks of toil.

You have heard that fine phrase: "The horny-handed sons of toil." It is said to have been coined by Gen. Sam Carey of Ohio. At least he made it famous by ringing it everywhere in his campaign speeches; and he could make it ring, for he was a dandy campaigner. Dandy is the word, for that was his style, and he had a voice well adapted to ringing things that had jingle in them.

During one of the campaigns in Ohio, not long after the war, it became necessary to capture the workingmen in order to win the fight, and Carey was chosen to lead the fray. It was then that he made "ye horny-handed sons of toil" a watchword and a war cry.

During this campaign [illegible] where he was greeted by great crowds of workingmen who had come from Wheeling and elsewhere to hear their champion orate, and he did it fine, ringing a variety of changes on the [illegible]. In order to get close to the people he classed himself with workingmen, speaking feelingly of their common hard lot.

Naturally the workingmen wanted to shake hands with him, and he was not loth to accommodate them; nor was he loth to get away [illegible]

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—In spite of the fact that this has been a general holiday and many thousands of workmen have been [illegible] about Broadway [illegible], there is no particular disorder tonight. [illegible] Labor day [illegible] would be full of howling young men and the Tenderloin police would have been warned by their captains to be particularly vigilant. Labor is well behaved, as a rule. Of course, there are some drunken men, but they have quiet as a rule [illegible]. Certainly there has been no outrageous activity among them and disorder is the exception in all parts of the city. This is worth noting because it is a popular impression that when New York workingmen get a day off they are so much inclined to paint the town red as any class of citizens between the Bronx and the Battery. But there will be work to be done tomorrow and the holiday makers of today will be busy when the bell has rung in the morning. That is, those that have work. It is said that many of the marchers in the parade today are out of employment. If they are, they looked satisfied as they plodded along Fifth avenue and not the kind of folk to whoop things up at night. Take it all in all, this has been a quiet day, followed by an equally orderly evening.

Jersey Trolley Case.

The court bases its ruling chiefly upon the point that it was not [illegible] that the derailing switch, the absence of which permitted the accident, is a customary device in street railroading. Only in 19 per cent of grade crossings said the presiding judge, are such switches in use. If that is true, the public safety is guarded only to the extent of 19 per cent. Or, to state the case otherwise, the corporations have neglected their plain duty to the extent of 81 per cent. [illegible] —Washington Star.

President Cassatt is naturally impressed with the irony of a situation which made the most [illegible] advocate of grade crossings in the United States a defendant in a grade crossing accident. During Mr. Cassatt's administration, grade crossings on the Pennsylvania railroad are becoming a thing of the past. Scores of them have disappeared already, and the completion of the improvements still under way will wipe out very many more. [illegible]

Belief Growing That Mrs. Margaret Cordes Drowned Herself and Daughter.

DRAGGING RIVER FOR BODY

Woman Had Been Despondent and Threatened to End Both Their Lives. She Has Not Been Seen Since Eight O'Clock Saturday Night.

The identification of Violet Cordes, the 5-year-old girl found in the Allegheny river near Herrs Island Sunday afternoon, has resulted in a mystery that the police and coroner are trying to solve. The child was the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Cordes, 30 years old, who had recently been living at No. 13 South Canal street, Allegheny. It is believed that the mother drowned herself and the child together Saturday night.

VIOLET CORDES, the Dead Child.

Minnie Gordon, of No. 13 South Canal street, Allegheny, said yesterday: "Margaret often told me that she would kill herself and child some day, and I believe she has done it."

Mrs. Cordes has not been heard of or seen since Saturday night after 8 o'clock. She left her rooms in Canal street shortly after 6 o'clock and has not been back. She took her child from Mrs. B. A. Davis' house at No. 17 Filebox street, Millvale, shortly after 7 o'clock that night.

The child was identified yesterday morning by B. A. Davis at the Allegheny county morgue. Mrs. Cordes left the child with them six weeks ago. Prior to that she had the girl at Mrs. Harry Willis' house, No. 21 Filebox street.

Last Seen Alive.

Harry Willis saw mother and child on the street in Millvale about 8 o'clock. This was the last seen of them alive. The child was found drowned by John Griffin and James Atchison near the Thirtieth street bridge the next day. They got a skiff, towed the body to shore and notified the coroner.

The mother seems to have been unfortunate in her career, and for that reason it is believed she has taken her life. She was born, raised and married in Altoona. She told Minnie Gordon that her husband was a railroad man and was killed in a wreck at that place three years ago. She then came to Pittsburgh to live with a brother, who is now serving a term in the penitentiary. After her brother was convicted she went to work for a brass and lamp manufacturing company in Allegheny. In June she went to Ferdinand Miller, steward on the Francis J. Torrance, and asked him for employment as a waitress or cook on the boat. She said the work in the factory was too confining and she wanted to get work on the boat so she would be in the air more. Miller gave the woman employment.

Mrs. Cordes worked on the boat until a month ago. During that time she supported her child at the Willis and Davis homes. When she left the boat she went to board with Mrs. Walten, No. 517 Lacock street, Allegheny. Two weeks ago she went to work with Minnie Gordon in Canal street. While there she was despondent and started to drink.

Threatened a Double Crime.

"I would rather see my baby dead than have her go through what I have," she said to Minnie Gordon. "Some day I will kill the baby and myself, too."

The Allegheny detectives are of the opinion the mother is also in the Allegheny river. Yesterday men dragged the river, where the child was recovered, but at a late hour last night the woman's body had not been found.

Mrs. Cordes had another brother, who is now in the regular army, stationed in the Philippines. It is also said she has a sister living in Pittsburgh. The missing woman was large, weighing about 170 pounds, and was 5 feet 10 inches in heighth.

Mrs. Cordes said that her brother was sent to the penitentiary two years ago from Westmoreland county. She always refused to reveal his name or her name before she married.

MEANEST MAN TO SERVE OUT AN $85 PENALTY

Chicago Husband Steals Groceries and Furniture and Sells Them for Small Sums.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The man who has the nerve not only to permit his wife to support him, but also to sell off the household good during her absence, has been sent to the Bridewell to work out an $85 fine.

"Well, I guess you are in line for the honor of being the meanest man in the state," said Justice Mayer, after listening to the testimony against the man, who said his name is Martin Novak.

Novak was charged by his wife with selling the furniture, groceries and even the beds for very small sums. A list of the effects disposed of this week, as given by Mrs. Novak, is as follows:

Monday, Aug. 24.—Took two pounds of sugar and sold it for 2 cents.

Tuesday, Aug. 25.—Took one pound of coffee. Gave this away.

Wednesday, Aug. 26.—Took a 12-pound ham and sold it for 35 cents.

Thursday, Aug. 27.—Took hatchet, saw and a picture frame. Got 50 cents for these.

Friday, Aug. 28.—Took a mattress and two pillows. These were found under a sidewalk.

The proceeds, according to Mrs. Novak, were spent on other women. It will be noted that the grand total is 87 cents. Mrs. Novak is the mother of several children and works in a vest factory.

Mucklerat Man Lost Money.

Frank Miller, of Donora, Pa., is locked up in the East End police station, charged with stealing $85 from William Purtell of Mucklerat, Pa. It is alleged that Purtell and Miller visited several East End saloons yesterday, and that Miller sometime during the day took the money from Purtell.

ANOTHER PLEDGE FACING CITIZENS

Councilman Stevenson Says Bigelow Machine Must Pass Light Ordinance.

COMPETITION IS PROMISED

Citizens, While Claiming Control of Select Council, Allow Measures to Be Buried—Only One Bidder for City's Big Contract Next Year.

Besides his new franchise tax scheme, Councilman W. H. Stevenson of the Fourteenth ward proposes to give the Bigelow machine trouble over the city electric light contract. Mr. Stevenson said yesterday that the Citizens would have to pass the electric light ordinances, to give competition to the Allegheny County Light Company, if the party wished to redeem its pledges to the people.

These ordinances were passed by common council many months ago, after the Bigelow members had made a hard fight to defeat them, taxing all the companies asking for a franchise except one favored corporation. The passage of the ordinances was finally forced by public sentiment, all being taxed alike.

Since then the Citizens, although claiming to have control of select council, have seen fit to let the ordinances lie undisturbed in the corporations committee of that body, making no move to either pass them or have them withdrawn from the committee.

Next March the four-year contract of the city with the Allegheny County Light Company expires, and unless another light company is given entrance into the city there will be but one bidder for the contract. The new city charter prohibits the renewal of the contract for four years, and the Allegheny County Light Company, unless competition is obtained by the passage of the pending ordinances, will have the city at its mercy.

The new charter does not permit contracts to be made beyond the time of the appropriations, which are made annually. If the contract is limited to one year and the company is the only bidder, it will demand a larger price than it receives now, which is said to be 25 per cent higher than that paid by any other city in the United States.

The city pays $86 for each arc light furnished by the Allegheny County Light Company, the company receiving from the city this year about $535,000.

Councilman Stevenson said yesterday that the Pennsylvania Light, Heat and Power Company, which is operating a light plant in Allegheny, could extend its lines to Pittsburgh immediately if its ordinance were passed by councils and would then be in a position to bid for the city contract next spring. None of the other companies asking for franchises have plants established.

Besides the prospective increase in the price of electric lights next year councils will probably be called upon to make an additional appropriation for lights to correct the blunder of which Director E. M. Bigelow accuses the finance committee and the controller's office.

Director Bigelow has shown that the controller and the finance committee committed a grievous error last winter in making up the appropriations for this year by re-appropriating the balance of last year's appropriation for the light bureau and leaving about $80,000 in bills from last year unpaid. This deficiency will have to be provided for next year and will make the appropriation for lights that much larger.

PERSONALS

About 100 delegates from Philadelphia, Scranton and Wilkesbarre arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon on their way to attend the annual convention of the Catholic Mutual Association grand council, which convenes at Butler today. The sessions will last three days and promise to be one of the most important in the history of the association. The Seventh Avenue hotel is the headquarters for the delegates, and they will leave this morning at [illegible] o'clock for Butler. A local committee entertained the visiting delegates. Some were taken to the playhouses and some to the Exposition. The council is not a legislative body, but only has the power to recommend measures to the supreme council and elect three delegates to act in that body. The supreme council will meet in Pittsburgh at the Monongahela House, October 13, and recommendations acted upon at the Butler convention will be acted upon. In Pennsylvania there are 14,000 members and in the National association 56,000. During the last three years there have been 24 local branches established in this jurisdiction with an increase of about 3,000 members. The grand president is N. J. Maxwell and grand secretary J. W. Sullivan, both of Pittsburgh.

Country Club
PLAN OF LOTS
SQUIRREL HILL

BOULEVARD FRONTAGE AT ACREAGE PRICES

How to Get to the Country Club Plan

If you take the Homestead, Braddock and Duquesne cars get off at Pocussett street and Murray avenue. Walk up Pocussett street one block to Shady avenue. Turn to your left and walk one block. If you take the Wilkinsburg, Swissvale and East Pittsburgh line get off at Shady avenue and Forbes street; if going out from Pittsburgh, turn to your right and walk five blocks.

Would you like to own a lot in the best section of Squirrel Hill if you could do so without a great outlay of money? The Country Club Plan of Lots is situated on the Beechwood Boulevard just at the entrance to the magnificent grounds of the Pittsburgh Country Club.

The other side of the Plan fronts on Shady avenue. There are 235 lots altogether, and every one is especially desirable as a home site. We have marked these at a little less than adjoining property is held at and we are going to sell them on easy payments, 5 per cent down and 2 per cent per month. Free from taxes and interest until all payments have been made. The prices range from $500 up.

This is the first time high-class residence property in Pittsburgh has been offered in this way—and it is the first time desirable Boulevard frontage has been offered at such low prices. We expect to sell all of the 235 lots in one day. We know that 25 times that number would not be enough to go around if we could bring the proposition clearly to the notice of the men in Pittsburgh and Homestead whose home tastes run to something more than four walls and a roof.

It is a proposition that must necessarily appeal to every man who has any love for home or congenial surroundings—an opportunity for the man of modest means to secure the same advantages and beautiful surrounding heretofore enjoyed only by the wealthy.

Go out any day this week and look over the property. Agents will be there to meet you and to give you any information you may desire.

Country Club Lots are only two blocks from street car line—Convenient to all points.

PRIDE AND ENVY ALIKE DESERVE CONDEMNATION

the city, and at the grounds of the New York State Fair association the president was received with notable enthusiasm. As he drove through the streets the tens of thousands of persons banked along the sidewalks greeted him with cheers. Business houses and residences were ablaze with bunting and the American flag floated from almost every window.

The luncheon in the club house on the fair grounds, at which the president was the principal guest, was attended by every important state official except Gov. Odell, who could not be present on account of a previous engagement.

After the applause which greeted his address on the fair grounds had subsided the crowd called for Senator Chauncey M. Depew. He spoke briefly and pronounced the president's address the best he ever had heard him deliver.

The President's Speech.

President Roosevelt in his address at the fair said:

In speaking of Labor day at the annual fair of the New York State Agricultural association, it is natural to keep especially in mind the two bodies who compose the majority of our people and upon whose welfare depends the welfare of the entire state. If circumstances are such that thrift, energy, industry and forethought enable the farmer, the tiller of the soil, on the one hand, the wage-worker, on the other, to keep themselves, their wives and their children in reasonable comfort, then the state is well off, and we can be assured that the other classes in the community will likewise prosper. On the other hand, if there is in the long run a lack of prosperity among the two classes named, then all other prosperity is sure to be more seeming than real. It has been our profound good fortune as a nation that hitherto, disregarding exceptional periods of depression and the normal and inevitable fluctuations, there has been on the whole from the beginning of our government to the present day a progressive betterment, alike in the condition of the tiller of the soil and in the condition of the man who, by his manual skill and labor, supports himself and his family, and endeavors to bring up his children so that they may be at least as well off as, and if possible, better off than he himself has been. There are, of course, exceptions, but as a whole the standard of living among the farmers of our country has risen from generation to generation, and the wealth represented on the farms has steadily increased, while the wages of labor have likewise risen, both as regards the actual money paid and as regards the purchasing power which that money represents.

It is all-essential to the continuance of our healthy national life that we should recognize this community of interest among our people. The welfare of each of us is dependent fundamentally upon the welfare of all of us, and therefore in public life that man is the best representative of each of us who seeks to do good to each by doing good to all; in other words, whose endeavor it is, not to represent any special class and promote merely that class' selfish interests, but to represent all true and honest men of all sections and all classes and to work for their interests by working for our common country.

Same Test for All.

We can keep our government on a sane and healthy basis, we can make and keep our social system what it should be, only on condition of judging each man, not as a member of a class, but on his worth as a man. It is an infamous thing in our American life, and fundamentally treacherous to our institutions, to apply to any test save that of his personal worth, or to draw between two sets of men any distinction save the distinction of conduct, the distinction that marks off those who do well and wisely from those who do ill and foolishly. There are good citizens and bad citizens in every class as in every locality, and the attitude of decent people toward great public and social questions should be determined, not by the accidental questions of employment or locality, but by those deep-set principles which represent the innermost souls of men.

The failure in public and in private life thus to treat each man on his own merits, the recognition of this government as being either for the poor as such or for the rich as such, would prove fatal to our republic, as such failure and such recognition have always proved fatal in the past to other republics. A healthy republican government must rest upon individuals, not upon classes or sections. As soon as it becomes government by a class or by a section it departs from the old American ideal.

The reason why our future is assured lies in the fact that our people are genuinely skilled in and fitted for self-government, and therefore will spurn the leadership of those who seek to excite this ferocious and foolish class antagonism. The average American knows not only that he himself intends to do about what is right, but that his average fellow countrymen has the same intention and the same power to make his intention effective. He knows whether he be business man, professional man, farmer, mechanic, employer or wage-worker, that the welfare of each of of these men is bound up with the welfare of all the others; that each is neighbor to the other, is actuated by the same hopes and fears, has fundamentally the same ideals, and that all alike have much the same virtues and the same faults.

Average Man Sane and Healthy.

Our average fellow citizen is a sane and healthy man, who believes in decency and has a wholesome mind. He therefore feels an equal scorn alike for the man of wealth guilty of the mean and base spirit of arrogance toward those who are less well off, and for the man of small means who in his turn either feels, or seeks to excite in others, the feeling of mean and base envy for those who are better off. The two feelings, envy and arrogance, are but opposite sides of the same shield, but different developments of the same spirit. Fundamentally, the unscrupulous rich man who seeks to exploit and oppress those who are less well off is in spirit not opposed to but identical with the unscrupulous poor man who desires to plunder and oppress those who are better off. The courtier and the demagogue are but developments of the same type under different conditions, each manifesting the same servile spirit, the same desire to rise by pandering to base passions; though one panders to power in the shape of a single man and the other to power in the shape of multitude. So likewise the man who wishes to rise by wronging others must by right be contrasted not with the man who likewise wishes to do wrong, though to a different set of people, but with the man who wishes to do justice to all people and to wrong none.

The line of cleavage between good and bad citizenship lies, not between the man of wealth who deals squarely by his fellows and the man who seeks each day's work, wronging no one and doing his duty by his neighbor; nor yet does this line of cleavage divide the unscrupulous wealthy man who exploits others in his own interest, from the demagogue, or from the sullen and envious being who wishes to attack all men of property, whether they do well or ill. On the contrary, the line of cleavage between good citizenship and bad citizenship separates the rich man who does well from the rich man who does ill, the poor man of good conduct from the poor man of bad conduct. This line of cleavage lies at right angles to any such arbitrary line of division as that separating one class from another, one locality from another, or men with a certain degree of property from those of a less degree of property.

The good citizen is the man who, whatever his wealth or his poverty, strives manfully to do his duty to himself, to his family, to his neighbor, to the state; who is incapable of the baseness which manifests itself either in arrogance or in envy, but who while demanding justice for himself is no less scrupulous to do justice to others. It is because the average American citizen, rich or poor, is of just this type that we have cause for our profound faith in the future of the republic.

Interests of All.

Ours is a government of liberty, by, through and under the law. Lawlessness and connivance at law-breaking—whether the law-breaking take the form of a crime of greed and cunning or of a crime of violence—are destructive not only of order, but of the true liberties which can only come through order. If alive to their true interests, rich and poor alike will set their faces like flint against the spirit which seeks personal advantage by overriding the laws, without regard to whether this spirit shows itself in the form of bodily violence by one set of men or in the form of vulpine cunning by another set of men.

Let the watchwords of all our people be the old familiar watchwords of honesty, decency, fair-dealing and common sense. The qualities denoted by these words are essential to all of us, as we deal with the complex industrial problems of today, the problems affecting not merely the accumulation but even more the wise distribution of wealth. We ask no man's permission when we require him to obey the law; neither the permission of the poor man nor yet of the rich man. Least of all can the man of great wealth afford to break the law, even for his own financial advantage; for the law is his prop and support, and it is both foolish and profoundly unpatriotic for him to fail in giving hearty support to those who show that there is in very fact one law, and one law only, alike for the rich and the poor, for the great and the small.

Men sincerely interested in the due protection of property, and men sincerely interested in seeing that the just rights of labor are guaranteed, should alike remember not only that in the long run neither the capitalist nor the wageworker can be helped in healthy fashion save by helping the other; but also that to require either side to obey the law and do its full duty toward the community is emphatically to that side's real interest.

Violence Injures All.

There is no worse enemy of the wageworker than the man who condones mob violence in any shape or who preaches class hatred; and surely the slightest acquaintance with our industrial history should teach even the most short-sighted that the times of most suffering for our people as a whole, the times when business is stagnant, and capital suffers from shrinkage, and gets no return from its investments, are exactly the times of hardship, and want, and grim disaster among the poor. If all the existing instrumentalities of wealth could be abolished, the first and severest suffering would come among those of us who are least well off at present. The wageworker is well off only when the rest of the country is well off; and he can best contribute to this general well-being by showing sanity and a firm purpose to do justice to others.

In his turn the capitalist who is really a conservative, the man who has forethought as well as patriotism, should heartily welcome every effort, legislative or otherwise, which has for its object to secure fair dealing by capital, corporate or individual, toward the public and toward the employe. Such laws as the franchise tax law in this state, which the court of appeals recently unanimously decided constitutional—such a law as that passed in congress last year for the purpose of establishing a department of commerce and labor, under which there should be a bureau to oversee and secure publicity from the great corporations which do an interstate business—such a law as that passed at the same time for the regulation of the great highways of commerce so as to keep these roads clear on fair terms to all producers in getting their goods to market—these laws are in the interest not merely of the people as a whole, but of the propertied classes. For in no way is the stability of property better assured than by making it patent to our people that property bears its proper share of the burdens of the state; that property is handled not only in the interest of the owner but in the interest of the whole community.

Good for One, Good for All.

In other words, legislation to be permanently good for any class must also be good for the nation as a whole, and legislation which does injustice to any class is certain to work harm to the nation. Take our currency system, for example. This nation is on a gold basis. The treasury of the public is in excellent condition. Never before has the per capita of circulation been so large as it is this day; and this circulation, moreover, is of money every dollar of which is at par with gold. Now, our having this sound currency system is of benefit to banks, of course, but it is of infinitely more benefit to the people as a whole, because of the healthy effect on business conditions.

In the same way, whatever is advisable in the way of remedial or corrective currency legislation—and nothing revolutionary is advisable under present conditions—must be undertaken only from the standpoint of the business community as a whole—that is, of the American body politic as a whole. Whatever is done, we cannot afford to take any step backward or to cast any doubt upon the certain redemption in standard coin of every circulating note.

There is no room in our healthy American life for the mere idler, for the man or the woman whose object it is throughout life to shirk the duties which life ought to bring. Life can mean nothing worth meaning unless its prime aim is the doing of duty, the achievement of results worth achieving. A recent writer has finely said: "After all, the saddest thing that can happen to a man is to carry no burdens. To be bent under too great a load is bad; to be crushed by it is lamentable; but even in that there are possibilities that are glorious. But to carry no load at all—there is nothing in that. No one seems to arrive at any goal really worth reaching in this world who does not come to it heavy laden."

Virtues Make Greatness.

This is not a soft and easy creed to preach. It is a creed willingly learned only by men and women who, together with the softer virtues, possess also the stronger; who can do, and dare, and die at need, but who while life lasts will never flinch from their allotted task. You farmers and wage-workers and business men of this great state, of this mighty and wonderful nation, are gathered together today, proud of your state and still prouder of your nation, because your forefathers and predecessors have lived up to just this creed. You have received from their hands a great inheritance, and you will leave an even greater inheritance to your children and your children's children, provided only that you practice alike in your private and your public lives the strong virtues that have given us as a people greatness in the past. It is not enough to be well-meaning and kindly, but weak; neither is it enough to be strong, unless morality and decency go hand in hand with strength. We must possess the qualities which make us do our duty in our homes and among our neighbors, and in addition we must possess the qualities which are indispensable to the making of every great and masterful nation—the qualities of courage and hardihood, of individual initiative and yet of power to combine for a common end, and above all, the resolute determination to permit no man and no set of men to sunder us one from the other by lines of caste or creed or section.

We must act upon the motto of all for each and each for all. There must be ever present in our minds the fundamental truth that in a republic such as ours the only safety is to stand neither for nor against any man because he is rich or because he is poor, because he is engaged in one occupation or another, because he works with his brains or because he works with his hands. We must treat each man on his worth and merits as a man. We must see that each is given a square deal, because he is entitled to no more and should receive no less. Finally we must keep ever in mind that a republic such as ours can exist only in virtue of the orderly liberty which comes through the equal domination of the law over all men alike, and through its administration in such resolute and fearless fashion as shall teach all that no man is above it and no man below it.

EXPECTS CITY TO GET $500,000

Councilman Stevenson Estimates the Annual Revenue from His New Tax Scheme.

SAYS OTHER PLAN IS ILLEGAL

Claims Ordinances to Tax Gross Receipts Will Not Stand Test in Courts, and Says Solicitor Rodgers Will So Advise Councils.

Common Councilman W. H. Stevenson expects his new franchise tax ordinance, which he will introduce at the next meeting of councils, to yield the city an annual revenue of $500,000, or just half of his estimate of the receipts from the ordinance calling for a 5 per cent tax on the gross receipts of public service corporations, which is pending in select council.

Mr. Stevenson said yesterday that the ordinance taxing the gross receipts, which he helped to put through common council upon the plea that it would bring a yearly revenue of $1,000,000 to the city, was not legal and he predicted that the coming report of City Solicitor W. B. Rodgers to councils, on the ordinance, would be unfavorable to the measure.

"We will have to get additional legislation from the state in order to levy a tax on the gross receipts, but my scheme to levy a license tax upon the street car tracks, the conduits, cables or mains of telephone, electric light and water companies, does not require any additional legislation, as the city charter gives councils the right to levy such a license tax. The tax on the gross receipts cannot be legally construed as a license tax, such as is provided for in the charter."

Mr. Stevenson exhibited a letter he has received from the city solicitor of Scranton which states that when the public service corporations of that city were asked to furnish a statement of their gross receipts, that only one of the companies responded and it denied the right of the city to collect any taxes until the supreme court had affirmed the right of a municipality to tax their vested rights.

Mr. Stevenson thinks that his new plan is legal and much better than a tax upon the gross receipts, because it is more simple and easier to compute. He said that all the information required could be obtained from the department of public works and that Director E. M. Bigelow had promised to furnish this data.

He denied, however, that Thomas S. Bigelow had approved his scheme, and said that it had not been even submitted to Mr. Bigelow.

Mr. Stevenson said he understood that the traction company had 90 miles of tracks in Pittsburgh. This makes 475,200 feet. If a tax of 50 cents a linear foot is levied, as Mr. Stevenson suggests, it would produce $237,600. He said the tax on cars, which now yields the city about $18,000 a year, might be repealed. Unless the rate is increased above 50 cents per foot, the difference between $500,000, his estimate of the total revenue from all corporations, and $237,600, would have to be obtained from the electric light, gas, water and telephone companies.

MINISTERIAL MEETINGS.

Various Associations Resume Weekly Meetings and Vacation Tales Told.

The ministerial association meetings were resumed yesterday after the summer vacation, and the pastors of the different denominations began their weekly discussions. The vacation experiences, as given by many of the clergy were interesting, and showed how much the summer had been enjoyed.

The Baptist preachers met in the Fourth avenue church and discussed work for the coming winter, and also the annual B. Y. P. U. convention, which will take place soon. The Rev. W. S. Bayne read an interesting paper on the "World's Need."

Prof. A. C. Knudson, D. D., of Allegheny college, discussed "Some Modern Views of the Bible," at the meeting of Methodist ministers.

The United Presbyterian ministers spent their time in giving their summer experiences and many interesting tales were related. The Rev. E. C. Little will read a paper on "The Preacher as the Pastor" before the meeting next Monday.

POLICEMAN USED MACE.

Mayor Wyman Investigates the Case and Promptly Releases a Prisoner.

Frank Burry, a son of ex-Alderman W. C. Burry of No. 116 West Diamond street, was arrested last night at a merry-go-round, Second street and Madison avenue, Allegheny, for interfering with Officer George Sill, who was attempting to arrest Henry Meyers, aged 35, a plasterer. The officer struck both men with his mace, and is said to have knocked them down.

Mayor Wyman, just after the arrest was made, had a talk with Meyer. Meyer, it is said, received short change for a ride on the machine and called an officer, who, instead of protecting him, struck him with his club. During the scuffle young Burry was shoved against the officer, who also struck him. Burry was released on his own recognizance for appearance.

GRATEFUL, HAPPY WOMEN

Miss Muriel Armitage.

Thank Pe-ru-na for Their Recovery After Years of Suffering.

Miss Muriel Armitage, No. 26 Greenwood avenue, Detroit, Mich., district organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, in a recent letter, says:

"I think that a woman naturally shrinks from making her troubles public, but restored health has meant so much to me that I feel for the sake of other suffering women it is my duty to tell what Peruna has done for me.

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria, and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called upon an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist in taking it regularly. I thought this was the least I could do and procured a bottle. I knew as soon as I began taking it that it was affecting me differently from anything I had used before, and so I kept on taking it. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used 10 bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman today."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Peruna cures catarrh of the pelvic organs with the same surety as it cures catarrh of the head. Peruna has become renowned as a positive cure for female ailments simply because the ailments are mostly due to catarrh. Catarrh is the cause of the trouble. Peruna cures the catarrh. The symptoms disappear.

Female Weakness is Pelvic Catarrh.

Always Half Sick Are the Women Who Have Pelvic Catarrh.

Catarrh of any organ, if allowed to progress will affect the whole body. Catarrh without nervousness is very rare, but pelvic catarrh and nervousness go hand in hand.

What is so distressing a sight as a poor half-sick, nervous woman, suffering from the many almost unbearable symptoms of pelvic catarrh? She does not consider herself ill enough to go to bed, but she is far from being able to do her work without the greatest exhaustion. This is a very common sight and is almost always due to pelvic catarrh.

It is worse than foolish for so many women to suffer year after year with a disease that can be permanently cured.

Peruna cures catarrh permanently. It cures old chronic cases as well as a slight attack, the only difference being in the length of time that it should be taken to effect a cure.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

RAPID TRANSIT SEEN IN EUROPE

Samuel Harden Church Approves of the Systems in London and Paris.

BADLY NEEDED IN PITTSBURGH

Advocates Cheap Conveyances to Run Through the Parks—Other Suggestions for the People's Pleasure Grounds. Plans for Founder's Day at Institute.

"We should copy from London and Paris systems of underground transportation."

This is the decided opinion of Samuel Harden Church, the author and railroad official, who, with his family, returned yesterday from a tour of Europe. Mr. Church, in an interview, continued:

In London, besides the old-fashioned underground steam railroad, which is dirty and objectionable, they have the new electric railway—two immense tubes running under ground the whole length of the city. About every quarter of a mile there is a station where the tube flattens out into spacious platforms, passengers using huge elevators. New and commodious trains, electrically lighted, run in each direction every two minutes, carrying the people who travel before 7:30 a. m. for 4 cents in our money for a round trip, and after that hour at 4 cents for a single trip. And these rates allow dividends. The overcrowding of our Pittsburgh street cars is unknown there and would not be tolerated. I should like to see an electric underground railroad planned out at once for Pittsburgh. It would be a great boon to the people and a paying investment for the stockholders.

Comparing our railway system, ours is vastly better than any institution of the kind in Europe. But in the subsidiary details of cab hire and baggage delivery, our extortionate rates and vexatious delays are an abomination, and the European methods, being expeditious and cheap, are almost perfect.

Ideas for the Parks.

The parks of Europe mean more to the people than our parks mean to us. They have landscape, trees, zoology, lakes, eating houses, shelter houses—above all, little nooks for public comfort—abounding everywhere, and omnibuses and electric railways to carry the people into their pleasure grounds. Compared with these condiolons it strikes me that our city parks in America are lacking in the greater part of these facilities. More or less large in acreage, they are often no more than dreary wastes of land. I should like to see the authorities develop our Pittsburgh parks so that the people can get the enjoyment from them which they have a right to expect.

There should be omnibuses or carry-alls in both Schenley and Highland parks, carrying the people for long or short distances for not more than 5 cents, and if this is not feasible electric cars should run through the parks, but only as an alternative. They have electric cars in The Hague park, and in most of the others they have 'buses.

Public comfort houses we should have, of the most modern and elaborate degree of convenience, not only in our parks, where they are essential to life, but in our streets as well. This is a hobby of mine, and I told the architects of the new Carnegie Institute a long time ago that if they would permit me to suggest the lavatory facilities of the new building I would not bother them with any other criticism. But our parks need improvements of every kind, and they will never be largely used by our people until we approach the European standard of development and access.

Imagination in Architecture.

Then again, I should like to see a more creative imagination in our architecture. It was not so very long ago that our builders were content to rest their efforts on four square walls and a roof. In Europe imagination following precedent, runs into a thousand shapes and gives to the architecture of the country the stamp of genius, which detracts nothing from the utility of the edifice. Everywhere in our land there is room for artistic growth. We ought to build more monuments to our great men. There is a vast uplifting power in a monument dedicated to a stimulating life, when designed by a talented hand.

In London I saw many of the distinguished men of Great Britain—her statesmen, authors, publishers and professors—meeting them at their houses and their clubs. We were in constant communication with Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie, but our hurried trip and the engagements in London left no time to make the long trip to Skibo castle, which was the only disappointment of the journey.

While I did not see Mr. Carnegie, he was writing to me of his hopes and plans for Pittsburgh. With Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, for principal orator, and other attractive features not yet ready to be announced, we are going to have one of the most interesting Founder's days on the 5th of next November that we have ever yet had.

LAUDER'S ENDYMION STARTS IN YACHT RACE

With Several Competitors She Will Sail Over a 524 Mile Course.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Pittsburgh will watch with interest a yacht race which started today. One of the racers is George Lauder's Endymion, which last July won in a race from Bretons Reef Light around South Shoal. The little brush which started today is over the longest distance ever arranged for yachts in cruising time. The course is 524 miles in length. The yachts will run to South Shoal lightship, off Nantucket, then back to Northeast End light, off Cape May, and finish at the original starting line. No such course has ever before been covered by racing yachts except in the transatlantic contest of years ago, between the Henrietta, Fleet Wing, Vesta, Dauntless and Coronet. Other yachts competing in the present event are Commodore Robert Tod's Thistle, E. S. Cole's Hildegarde, Dr. L. A. Stimson's Fleur de Lys, Morton Plant's Ingomar and J. G. N. Whitaker's Iroquois.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed at the start and a great fleet of yachts from the Atlantic Yacht club's squadron went down to Scotland lightship to see the start and follow for a while in the wake of the racers. Henry J. Gielow, Frederick Vilmar and Charles Schuyler of the regatta committee of the Atlantic Yacht club, started the racers. The club will award a first, second and third prize if five yachts finish.

FRANK A. PARKER.

PEARY'S SHIP WILL BE NAMED AFTER DARLING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Commander Peary, who will make another attempt to reach the North Pole next summer, stated today that the ship in which his expedition will sail northward probably will be called the Charles H. Darling, in recognition of the assistant secretary's interest and activity in the proposed venture.

What St. Louis Is and Has.

St. Louis is fast becoming one of the largest commercial and manufacturing centers of the world, and has, therefore, much of interest to visitors, aside from the coming world's fair.

It has a number of mercantile houses and manufactories ranking first in their respective lines, the name and fame of which have spread throughout civilization. Probably none other of these will appeal so strongly to sightseers, from points both of immensity and general interest, as will the plant of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing association. When, in 1866, Mr. Adolphus Busch took charge of the concern which was then known under the firm name of E. Anheuser & Co., it was one of the smallest of its line in this country, but, under Mr. Busch's skillful guidance its business increased phenomenally. New buildings sprung up like mushrooms, but on foundations as strong as fortresses, so that now the handsome red brick buildings, trimmed with granite and white stone, present a beautiful city in themselves. From an output of 8,000 barrels in 1865 its sales increased to more than 1,000,000 barrels in less than 40 years.

However, the keystone to the success of this great establishment was Budweiser, which on account of its rare mellowness, fine flavor and exquisite taste, immediately became a favorite among the beer-drinking people at all points of the globe, and now by far exceeds in sales any other brand of bottled beer.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO OUR FRIENDS WHO ARE ABOUT TO ATTEND GREAT LOT SALE AT

We write this announcement to protect our friends, warning them to "make sure" that they are on our property before they do any buying. We sound this warning because we have learned that some people are under the impression that we have all the marketable land in the Perrysville district. We have not. We have nearly all, but not all. We have the choice level section, lying between Keating and Bellevue, where the millions of dollars are being spent in a giant work of street and traction improvements. We have the only property in this wonderful territory that the grand new West-View, East Street and Madison Avenue double-tracked, manifold-motor short line passes through. It is the only property that has the new germ-proof water-works, getting pure sand-filtered water from 700 feet beneath the bed of the Ohio river. It is the only property where the purchaser can step in and buy lots on graded, sewered and paved streets and get both gases and electric light.

THERE IS NO LOT PLAN, IMPROVED OR UNIMPROVED, NOW FOR SALE ON THE NEW WEST-VIEW SHORT-LINE TO PITTSBURGH, EXCEPT KEATING WEST-VIEW NO. 2, WHICH WE SHOW IN THE ABOVE BIRD'S EYE.

It is the only property having complete city improvements that is being sold for actually less money than adjoining estates are valued at. It is the only property that you can today buy at $50, $100, $150, $200, $250, $300, $350, $400, $450 and $500 a lot, and rest assured that you are going to have the same city conveniences that you get downtown, with pure water instead of impure water besides.

These are facts you want to think about before you allow yourself to be persuaded to pay a higher price for a piece of a wheat field, away off from the car line and just as far away from any city improvements. Where there are city improvements and a good traction line within 25 minutes of Pittsburgh, buildings will go up and a population will take root. You don't need to be told this. You can see the thing happening already at Keating West-View. It's less than seven weeks since the first plan of 762 lots was opened and entirely sold off, yet houses are being erected as if by the swift magic of fairy gods instead of by human energy.

It never happened this way on any other property. The old, practical investors who follow real estate for the largest amount of money they can make out of it are buying this property as fast as they get on it, and after they buy they hold it, improve it, build on it.

Seven weeks! Keep that in your mind! Houses, good houses, houses governed by building restrictions, built up within seven weeks and now people living in them. Good people living in them. What other property ever became populated within seven short weeks? None. It never happened anywhere before. All building and resident-settling records are smashed to smithereens by what has occurred on this property.

What do you suppose has caused all this? Would people come to live in a barren field this fast? Not much. In these days the modern man who is looking for a beautiful location like Keating West-View wants to get to his work or business on time, and he wants to bathe in a bath tub supplied with hot and cold water spigots. He wants to be able to turn on gas or electric light, not light a candle or hunt for a kerosene lamp. He prefers to remain in the soot and fog rather than walk a quarter of a mile to a car or put up with the inconveniences of our forefathers.

Men with millions. Men who are letting these millions loose to build the finest residential city on top of ground are now talking to you. Men who have always backed up their promises. Men who could not afford to do anything else.

OPENING OF NEW STOCKYARDS CELEBRATED BY TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND PERSONS

BIG STOCKYARDS THROWN OPEN

raisers to succeed in producing the best cattle possible. You will see today, here in these yards, cattle only 2½ years old that are prize cattle of today.

Pittsburgh in the last five years has consumed the best beef raised in the United States. Its citizens can always have the best beef if they will say to the retail dealers, "We want to buy home-dressed beef." Beef that is slaughtered in the west sometimes is refrigerated too long, which causes ptomaines, which poisoned so many of our soldiers in the Spanish-American war.

The commission men of the Pittsburgh new Union stock yards are men of character and integrity, which assures the shipper of receiving the full market price for his live stock at Pittsburgh.

Cheaper Than Chicago.

Our charges are less than any other western yard. They charge 25 cents per head—we only charge 15 cents, and at the yards in Chicago they charge an extra $2 per car. The shippers from Central Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and West Virginia can save $2 a car in charges by coming to Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh must be a better market than Chicago or any other western point, because we buy thousands of cattle in Chicago to ship to Pittsburgh.

I had charge of the Central stock yards at East Liberty for many years, and one of the gratifying things of my life is that in all these years I have been in harmony with the commission men, the shippers and the dealers; all uniting for one object—to make Pittsburgh a good live stock market. In the past we have been hampered at the United stock yards by delays. Every man familiar with the shipping of cattle knows that when they lay on side tracks the shipper is generally as hot as a furnace and there are no good people in the world. But at the Pittsburgh Union stock yards we expect to do our business with great dispatch and avoid all kinds of delays.

In the name of the Pittsburgh Union Stock Yards Company, I welcome you all.

Mayor Hays was then introduced and he merely acknowledged the burst of applause which greeted him with a wave of his hand and a smile of welcome.

Mayor Wyman followed with a short talk after enthusiastic shouts of applause had greeted his introduction by Mr. McClain. Mayor Wyman said he was glad so many had gathered to witness the event which would make this section even greater than it now is. He said he wanted all who came to Allegheny to be well treated and knew that they would be, as the people he represents never treat discourteously the strangers within their gates.

James Francis Burke made the last address. His subject was "Pittsburgh," and in his characteristic style he told the visitors of Pittsburgh's greatness and how great it is yet to be. He said Pittsburgh and Allegheny have no bosses except a few would-be chaps whom the people will soon relegate to the rear. He closed by predicting that the Pittsburgh stock yards will ere long be the greatest in every way in the whole world.

Invitations to the opening were issued in the name of the Pittsburgh Union Stock Yards Company, which is the holding company for the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio and the successor to the Central Stock Yards Company at East Liberty.

Took Care of Guests.

Simon O'Donnell, as general manager of the stock yards company, was host yesterday, and the reception of visitors, if such the stream of people could be called, was held in the stock exchange building. The packing houses on the island, as well as many commission men, united in conjunction with a reception committee of the Pittsburgh live stock exchange to show the visitors every opportunity of seeing the extent of the yards. The most prominent commission men gave away souvenirs and opened their doors to the sightseers.

The more important guests included Robert Pitcairn of the Pennsylvania railroad and president of the Union Stock Yards Company, R. L. O'Donnell, general superintendent of the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley; O. T. McCabe, freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania lines; the freight traffic officials of the Baltimore & Ohio at Pittsburgh, the transportation officials of the Pittsburgh and West Penn divisions of the Pennsylvania and of the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore & Ohio and live stock delegates from Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Among the out of town men were D. Reining, M. P. Bulton, J. H. Cumberland, M. J. Ensman, Louis Burk, H. C. McElroy, W. M. Weinberg, Leon Michael, Henry Lanzel, Frank P. Lowry, Charles A. Schaupler, S. Hennebron, Samuel Hennebon, D. J. Murphy, C. A. Higbee, Philadelphia; Solomon Greenwald, William Houseman, Baltimore; William D. Wilkens, Wilmington, Del.; B. E. Heise, W. F. John, Lancaster; C. S. Dengser, West Philadelphia.

Venerable Stock Dealer Present.

An interested spectator was James Aull of Lincoln avenue, who is one of the oldest stockmen of Pennsylvania. He is 86 years of age and is the father of C. H. Aull of the Cudahy Packing Company, Omaha.

The sales in the morning comprised 440 loads of cattle, 300 hogs, 500 sheep and 600 calves. Charles Escher of Manning, Ia., brought three loads of fine cattle, selling one car of polled Angus at $7.75 on the hoof, which was the highest price reached during the day at Pittsburgh or any other city. The lowest was $5.75.

Work on the construction of the Herrs island yards was begun in May, 1902, by the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio railroads and was completed a week ago, the first sale taking place Monday, August 31. The island was originally owned by a number of people, who from time to time sold their interests to W. V. and J. D. Callery. The Pittsburgh & Western railroad, now a part of the Baltimore & Ohio, got a strong hold on the island, and about two years ago the Pennsylvania, with its affiliated western lines which center here, bought property there.

Samuel W. Allerton of Chicago was sent for by President A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania and asked his opinion in regard to moving the stock yards from East Liberty to Herrs island.

"I tried to do it 20 years ago," exclaimed Mr. Allerton. He was forthwith commissioned to draw plans for large yards on the island, and after a few months' work he reported favorably. The matter was then placed in the hands of Col. J. U. Crawford, engineer of branch lines of the Pennsylvania, and in 1902 the contract for building up the island, constructing tracks, building pens, etc., was awarded to S. M. Green and B. E. Rhoads, assistant engineer of the Pennsylvania, was sent here to represent that road on the field.

The work has been of enormous magnitude. Instead of filling in the island, which has an area of 35 acres, with any kind of material a scientific principle was employed by means of slag, cement and brick. The island as it now stands is a self-drained piece of land.

Of the 35 acres 30 are covered with buildings. The yards have a capacity of 12,000 cattle, 25,000 hogs, 20,000 sheep 3,000 calves and 500 horses. In the center of the island stands the exchange building, a three-story red brick structure which houses the commission men and serves as headquarters for the Pittsburgh live stock exchange. The various railroads also have offices in this building.

A Home-Dressed Market.

The two railroads which own the property, in conjunction with Mr. Allerton and Manager O'Donnell, have aimed to make Pittsburgh a "home-dressed" market, and the stock yards are fast fostering this kind of business. The Union stock yards does a business as follows:

	Ave. Per Day.	Per Year.	Weight.
Cattle	3,000	1,095,000	1,314,000,000
Hogs	6,000	2,190,000	438,000,000
Sheep	4,000	1,560,000	116,500,000
Calves	400	146,000	2,920,000
Total	13,000	4,891,000	1,871,720,000

Average price per pound, 5 cents; amount, $93,586,000.

Samuel Allerton is really the father of the stock yards in Pittsburgh. As early as 1863, during the height of the civil war, he leased a tract of land from the Pennsylvania railroad at East Pittsburgh for distributing beef for war purposes. From this grew a sheep market, and for 20 years after the war the East Liberty stock yards were pre-eminently the leading sheep market of the country. From this grew the old East Liberty stock yards, which have just been dismantled.

At the Hotel Schenley last evening Mr. O'Donnell entertained a number of his friends at a private dinner.

EPISCOPALIANS TO CONVENE.

Interesting Matters Will Be Discussed at Church Convention in November.

Arrangements for the twenty-second annual convention of the Episcopal church, which will be held in Pittsburgh, November 3-6, are about completed. Delegates to the number of 1,500, representing every state and territory in the union are expected to be in attendance. Almost every prominent clergyman of this denomination in the United States is expected to be present, and many noted laymen, among them J. Pierpont Morgan, a member of the general committee; George Foster Peabody, Hamilton W. Mabie, Thomas Nelson Page and Capt. Alfred T. Mahan, United States navy, are also expected.

The question of marriage and divorce, the proposed change of name of the church and other vital topics will be considered, insuring a memorable and interesting convention. The exercises will be held for the most part in the Pittsburgh Carnegie music hall. The local committee in charge is composed of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Arundel, chairman, the Rev. H. A. Flint, secretary, and W. W. McCandless, treasurer. The opening address will be made by the Rt. Rev. A. H. Vinton, bishop of Western Massachusetts, in the Trinity church in Sixth avenue.

BRADDOCK COUNCILMEN DEMAND BETTER LIGHT

Threaten to Revoke Contract. Object to Paying Auditors $2.50 a Day.

Braddock councilmen have grown tired of transacting public business of the borough in semi-darkness, and last night the council body adopted a resolution calling upon the Citizens Light Company to furnish better illumination or the contract with the company would be revoked. During the recent sessions the lights have been very poor, going out at intervals when the legislators were hard at work.

Complaints were also made about the too extensive use of the streets by Italian fruit dealers who put their stands in the streets. The ordinance allowing the use of the streets for this purpose will be repealed. The council objected to paying three auditors, who have inspected the books of the borough, $2.50 a day each for 32 days. The auditors refused to reduce the bills and a special meeting was called for next Monday to take the matter up.

George Hoag, president of the Braddock board of commerce, asked that Third and Fourth streets, between Halket and Braddock avenues, be closed for the street carnival. The city solicitor was asked to give an opinion in regard to the raising of rates by the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company. The property committee was instructed to have a section of the borough hall set aside for an emergency hospital.

TO EXTEND TRAMWAY UP VESUVIUS CRATER

ROME, Sept. 7.—There has been such a notable diminution in the eruption of Vesuvius that the electric railroad from Naples to connect with the old funicular tramway will be opened in a few days, thus reducing the fatigue and time occupied at present in ascending the volcano. It is said that the funicular line will be extended up the side of the crater.

Two Railroaders Seriously Hurt.

Harry Mechas, 25 years old, a brakeman, had his skull fractured and his collar bone broken, and Ira Holmes, 28 years old, a flagman, had his right arm broken. The men were sitting on top of a freight car when it suddenly started and jolted them off at Conway. Pa. Mechas was sent to St. John's General hospital and Holmes to his home in Allegheny. Mechas lives in Island avenue, Allegheny, and his condition is said to be critical.

CROWDS AT EXPOSITION.

Labor Day Attendance Was Every Bit as Large as Was Expected.

The new Exposition management was not disappointed in its expectation of a crushing Labor day attendance, as the congested condition of the two big buildings plainly evidenced all yesterday afternoon and evening. Suburbanites largely made up the afternoon gathering, while for the night concert it seemed the whole town had been astir. And with the crowds came enthusiasm in larger measure, not only for Creatore, but for every feature of the new Exposition. Among the attractions none was more liberally patronized than the vitagraph, whose beautiful housing aroused no end of flattering comment. Extra features in the theatorium were Ada Arnoldson, Swedish nightingale, and Tommy Baker, comedian, both of whom will be continued daily for the balance of the week.

Creatore was in his happiest mood throughout the day, and presented his music in magnificent manner. The hold of this bandman upon his audience has become the talk of the town.

For today the Creatore programs present a number of prime favorites, among them Nevin's "Narcissus," "Merry Wives of Windsor" overture, Rubinstein's "Traumerei" and the stately "Mignon" overture. This afternoon's program follows:

2 P. M.

March—"Tannhauser" .... Wagner
Overture—"Merry Wives of Windsor" .... Nicolai
Intermezzo—"Narcissus" .... Nevin
Waltz—"Tres Jolie" .... Waldteufel
Selection—"The Army Chaplain" .... Millocker

4 P. M.

March—"American Navy" .... Creatore
Suite—"Peer Gynt" .... Grieg
(a) "The Morning"
(b) "The Death of Ase"

(d) "In the Hall of the Mountain King"

NEW SCHOOL DEDICATED IN BRACKENRIDGE BOROUGH

Brackenridge borough's new school was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The building is brick and stone and two stories high. It will accommodate about 175 pupils and has six rooms. The school children of Brackenridge and some from Tarentum, marched to the school house before the ceremony. The borough officials of Brackenridge were present and took part in the ceremony, which included speeches by several of the officials. B. F. Sample, the president of the Tarentum Savings and Trust Company, of Tarentum, was the leading speaker.

MISS M'LEAN RETURNS FROM HER WESTERN TRIP

Says the Brother of Late Recorder Has Caused Much Trouble.

Miss Nattie McLean of No. 300 McKee place, Oakland, who lives at the house in which J. O. Brown, the late recorder of Pittsburgh, died, returned to her home yesterday after a trip of over a month in the west. Miss McLean expressed her pleasure over taking the long trip to Puget sound, Washington, where she has relatives, and said that she feels much better than when she went away.

When asked about her plans she said: "I have not yet had time to know what has happened in the weeks of my absence, and until I have talked it all over it would be best for me not to say anything."

When asked about her statement that she was restrained by fear of harming a third person from telling more about the death of Mr. Brown, she said that she did not mean that she could end the inquest at once by any knowledge she had, but on the matter that she decided to say nothing more than on the other.

"J. M. F. Brown, the late recorder's brother, has given the trouble a great deal more publicity than it deserved," she said. "Of course, Mr. Brown was a public man and had been for many years, but the manner in which J. M. F. Brown has acted is without excuse. He would have been more manly and fairer had he made open charges instead of the covert threats and innuendoes which have been printed as coming from him. An open charge would have permitted a fair denial.

"If the methods Mr. Brown has used had brought sorrow only to himself that would not have been so serious, but he has dragged into the trouble those who are entirely innocent."

Burglars Upset Safe and Fled.

The upsetting of a large safe in the office of the C. A. Fischer wagon works at Forbes and Gist streets, Sunday night, caused burglars to abandon the safe after they had drilled eight holes into it. The safe contained silver and checks for several hundred dollars. When the office was opened yesterday morning the attempted burglary was discovered. Three bottles of nitroglycerin and a quantity of dynamite were left behind by the burglars.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at Exposition Park.
Brooklyn at New York.
Philadelphia at Boston.

It was a sure enough Labor day for Fred Clarke and his Pirate crew, who were forced to work harder than on any previous day this season and the best they could do was to split even with that Chicago bunch, which has been a trouble-maker for the Champions. The morning game was won by Chicago 13 to 8, and the afternoon game belongs to the Pirates 7 to 6.

The morning game was a nightmare which the Champions as well as the 5,000 spectators would like to forget. The Pirates started in crippled, as Ritchey was under the weather and Kruger at second base with Doheny doing the pitching. Kruger proved a poor substitute for "Little All Right," and Doheny's curves were just what the Chicago batters were looking for. At that the left hander would have worked all right, but his support was something awful and the blunders brought forth jeers from the crowd.

To add to the Champions' woes Wagner was injured in the second inning and was forced to retire, Clarke taking his place at short, and Marshall, the new man from San Fran- [illegible]

NOTES OF THE GAMES.

... fifth inning of the second game. Clarke was on first with none out and Leach, as was his duty, laid the ball down for a sacrifice. Tommy's bunt went towards first and Raub secured it, but Leach stopped after going half way and chased back to the home plate, bringing Raub after him in order to touch him out. This gave Manager Fred lots of time to reach second.

In the afternoon that rotund little bunch of baseball ability Dr. James Casey, drew cheers from the crowd on two or three occasions by remarkably clever plays. In the third inning he popped up in the air and pulled down Ritchey's hot liner, and later in the game he nailed a sizzling grounder from Clarke's bat, but could not recover in time to throw the runner out. Casey is a ball player all the way.

Marshall, the Pirate's new outfielder, made his first appearance in the morning game and on his first chance at bat he landed on the ball and drove it almost to the left field bleachers. Later in the field he got a chance, but misjudged the ball and it counted for a two bagger. Marshall was nervous and his misjudge can be credited to that. He showed that he is a hitter all right, and can easily learn the fielding game. He looks like a valuable man.

Beaumont was mixed up in the afternoon game in a successful way and was the hero of the crowd. In the fifth inning he drove a hot one down at Raub, who made a wild throw, the ball hitting Beau on the leg and rolling to the bleechers. The red headed Pirate kept on around the bases and Raub recovered the ball and tried to head him off at third, but his throw was again wild and Beaumont easily brought the run home. In the ninth Beau brought home the run that won the game.

That Clarke is a real leader in playing as well as managing was shown in the ninth inning of the afternoon game. Beaumont had hit the ball to deep center, but on account of ground rules the hit only counted for two bases, whereas had the field been clear it would have netted an easy home run. A hit was needed to win the game and Manager Fred didn't do a thing but produce that hit. There's no use talking that Clarke is certainly a wonder.

KISTLER WILL TRY TO SWIM CHANNEL

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—(Special.)—The task that has baffled every long distance swimmer since the day when Captain Matthew Webb tried it and succeeded, the swimming of the stretch of turbulent water between Dover and Calais, is to engage the powers of George Kistler, the swimming instructor of the University of Pennsylvania.

A party of Philadelphians interested in swimming will accompany Kistler to England. The aspirant for channel honors is training for the attempt in the swimming tank of the Houston club at the University of Pennsylvania. He now weighs about 190 pounds, but will try to increase his weight rather than diminish it.

Kistler is well known on the other side having beaten the famous Willie Beckwith for the one-mile championship of the world. In this country his long distance swims are too well known to need recapitulation.

AN EVEN BREAK AT WILMERDING

The Morning Game Taken by Homestead and Afternoon Contest Won by Home Team.

SOME BRILLIANT FIELDING

Homestead clashed twice with Wilmerding at Westinghouse park yesterday, and the Steeltown aggregation was fortunate to get away with one of the games, as Manager Hammerle's men outplayed them in both contests. Parkins got the luckier support in the morning game and nosed Coleman out, the feature being Stevenson's play at second base and Wilmerding's batting.

In the afternoon battle Stewart held Homestead safe at all stages, and with perfect support would have scored a shutout. Running catches by Stoltz and Tate drew great applause, while West, Mason and Moore hit well at critical stages. Friday and Saturday the fast Waynesburg team will be the attraction at Westinghouse park, while another game is scheduled with Homestead September 15 at Steel Works park.

PLUNGED OVER TRACK.

Four Riders Seriously Injured on Motor Cycle Track.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Four men were seriously injured this afternoon during the running of a five-mile cycle motor handicap at Manhattan Beach. They plunged over the track embankment opposite the grandstand while going at a terrific pace.

They were Alexander Dufrane of Elizabeth, N. J., who was badly bruised and is believed to have sustained internal injuries; N. T. Barnard of Hartford, Conn., cut and bruised and shoulder hurt; F. W. Rogers of Brooklyn, badly bruised and head laid open; P. Johnson of Newark, head cut and thought to have been internally injured.

Barnard was the first to fall, going over the track. Later he claimed that the rider ahead, whose name cannot be ascertained, forced him off the track.

Unnerved by Barnard's plunge and by the shout of horror which arose from the crowded grandstands, the three other riders followed within a few seconds. They were picked up, bleeding and unconscious.

MANY NEW RECORDS BY NEW YORK ATHLETES

New Marks Created in the Hurles, Weight Throw and the Broad Jump.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CELTIC PARK, L. I., Sept. 7.—At the revival of the Tall Tin games, Ireland's famous sports of ancient times this afternoon, 15,000 witnessed the making of three new world's records. Harry Hillan, the tall, clean-limbed sprinter of the New York A. C., ran over the hurdles for 440 yards in the astonishing time of :55 3-5. For 300 yards he went with the speed of an antelope. Then he faltered, but managed to finish easily amid a great roar of appreciation. He beat the second man, Charles Bacon of the Greater New York I. A. C., by nearly 30 yards. The old record was :58 2-5.

Big Jim Mitchell, the veteran weight thrower of the New York A. C., was the next man to shatter long-distance figures. He hurled the 56-pound weight the great distance of 38 feet 5 inches, beating the former record held by John Kyle of Tipperary, Ireland, by four inches.

Mitchell also created a new American record for putting the 42-pound stone with a put of 28 feet 8½ inches.

Then Ray C. Ewing, another elongated athlete of the New York A. C., hung up a new record for three standing broad jumps. He leaped 35 feet 8¾ inches, beating the old record by himself by one and one-half inches.

SMATHER'S BIG WINNINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—E. E. Smathers' McChesney, the pride of the west, won the Twin City handicap at Sheepshead Bay today. McChesney was always a warm favorite, closing at 2 to 1. He equaled the track record for 1¼ miles, made by Waterboy July 2 this year, by covering the distance in 2:04 3-5. T. K. Thomas' Hermis, paying 5 to 5 for the place, was second with the outsider, His Eminence, third.

The demonstration accorded the [illegible] as he flashed under the wire was probably the heartiest that has ever greeted a winner on the western turf. The cheering began before McChesney had finished and continued until Fuller eased up his mount on the paddock turn. Upon his return to the scales it was renewed, 40,000 persons joining in the cheering while hats, canes, handkerchiefs and umbrellas were thrown in the air.

Although McChesney has only started twice in the east, his first attempt while unsuccessful, was really a good performance, and on the strength of that race he was made favorite today.

As the horses were at the post the Smathers money began to show itself. Smathers' commissioners were busy, and it is estimated that he cleaned up something over $50,000.

The Twin City handicap is only a $3,500 [illegible]

The Winter A. C. was defeated at Millvale yesterday in a listless game in which the excitement was confined to one inning. UGLY ACCIDENT TO BUDD DOBLE

Roman's Boot Dropped and Not Only Caused an Upset, but the Race Also.

JUDGES DISTANCED HORSE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARTFORD, CONN., Sept. 7.—An accident—the throwing of Budd Doble in the fifth heat of the 2:10 trot, which resulted in the distancing of The Roman, who had won two heats—prevented the completion of the program at the opening day's races in the fall meet of the Grand Circuit at Charter Oak track today. There were about 12,000 persons in attendance and the conditions were well nigh perfect for good [illegible]

It was during the last event on the program that the accident occurred and as it was too late to finish the [illegible] the judges postponed the final heat until tomorrow, when the best winners will decide the contest. At the three-quarter mark in the fifth heat Doble, behind The Roman, was forging to the front when a [illegible] boot became loose, and so dropped as to trip The Roman, who staggered. Doble, realizing that an accident was unavoidable, threw himself from the sulky, landing hard on the track. MORE HISSES THAN CHEERS

Parks Leads New York Labor Parade and Is Given Hostile Greeting.

DEVERY WAS ALSO IN LINE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Sept. 7.

More hisses than cheers greeted Sam Parks, the convicted walking delegate, as he led his labor parade through the streets today. Instead of 40,000 men in line 11,625 was the actual count, and thus labor repudiated the man who stands convicted of extorting money from employers for calling off strikes.

"Big Bill" Devery, the former chief of police, was really the central figure, as he easily overshadowed Parks and his big white horse at the head of the procession. Devery made a speech at the close of the parade and it was such a speech as only Devery can make.

"You workingmen will remember this parade and this day on to election time," said Devery. "Treasure it in your hearts and go to the election and show that all that was said against you were lies. Do not be led by a lot of thieving politicians. Stand fast and do not be overcome by them."

This speech of Devery was made at Fifth avenue and Eighth street, where the chief and Parks reviewed the parade. Parks was called on for a speech, but he had disappeared, having left quietly for a picnic in Baldwin's park, Jersey City.

Parks was plainly disappointed at his "vindication." It was not what he had expected. When he was released from Sing Sing he said there would be 100,000 men in line. On several occasions there was cheering on one side of the avenue and hissing on the other.

FRANK A. PARKER.

SAM GOMPERS LAUDS THE CAUSE OF LABOR

He Also Ridicules President Parry of the Manufacturers' Association.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—The Labor day parade this morning was the largest ever seen in Indianapolis, over two hours being required to pass. Many visiting delegations were here from neighboring cities and towns. The address of the day was delivered this afternoon by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to 15,000 persons at the fair grounds. He said in part:

We know that the toilers of America, organized in a practical, peaceable, rational movement for the uplifting of the masses, marched with you today, and we know that as they marched they marked a milestone from the demonstration of a year ago, a milestone in the progress of industrial freedom, leaving behind us all that is wrong, all that is unjust. The world is our field, and justice and humanity our goal.

Some say the workingmen lose their individuality when they join a union of labor. In truth, the workingman has lost his individuality just as soon as he enters one of our great modern industrial plants. The old idea, even among the business men, that competition is the life of industry, is no longer held as an economical tenet. Competition is today the death of the trader.

President Gompers devoted the remainder of his remarks to President D. M. Parry of the National Manufacturers' association. He said Mr. Parry had constituted himself the savior of society and civilization. His reference to Mr. Parry was from the standpoint of ridicule. Said he, in closing:

A strike may bring about strife and discord, but as soon as it is done better feelings are engendered and mutual respect is brought about. I don't think I would care to have a strike in Mr. Parry's factory, but I don't believe it would be an unmixed evil, for he might learn the lesson that Mr. Baer has learned—that there is something to arbitrate, to discuss, to concede. Organized labor has no feeling against Mr. Parry. It has no designs against his life, his children or the safety of his property. He is as safe from labor as is President Roosevelt.

I have never yet challenged Mr. Parry to joint debate, but I say now I will challenge Mr. Parry to a debate upon the labor question and the labor movement, not necessarily before a great public gathering, although I will do that if it please him, but I am willing to meet him in debate before any economic association that he may select. I will meet him before the Indianapolis Ministerial association or the Manufacturers' association or that of any other city in America. I challenge him to submit the report that he prepared for the last convention at New Orleans to the next convention of the Manufacturers' association, and ask the convention to indorse all he said in that report. He knows that the National Manufacturers' association will not be committed to such an unjustifiable and unreasonable attack on organized labor.

AN UNREASONING MOB ASSAULTED TEAM OWNER

One Thousand Men Chase a Wagon Loaded With Children and Beat Driver.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—J. J. Thornton, the proprietor of the warehouse and van company, was assaulted today, during the labor parade, because he was driving one of his own teams without having a union card in his possession.

Thornton hitched three horses to one of his vans in the morning and took a score or more of children out to see the parade. He attempted to haul nothing but his guests. For three hours he stood with his wagon at the corner of Jackson boulevard and Clark street, and watched the parade, and when he attempted to drive away he was stopped by some of the teamsters in the parade, who asked if he had a union card. He tried to explain that he needed no card, that it was his own team and that he was doing no hauling.

Several hundred men gathered around the wagon and attempted to pull him off. An escort of police enabled him to get several blocks away when a mob numbering fully 1,000 caught up with him. He whipped up his horses and for nearly a mile he was pursued, when finally the mob cut the harness off his horses, beat the animals with canes, compelling them to run away, and then beat Thornton badly. Thornton employs a large number of teamsters, all of whom are members of the union and has never had any trouble with the organization.

WISE WORDS TO LABOR.

Archbishop Ireland Delivers a Timely Dissertation to Organized Labor.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Sept. 7.—Today was fittingly celebrated as Labor day by a monster demonstration by organized labor. After a parade Archbishop Ireland delivered an address to a great crowd. In his address Archbishop Ireland spoke in part as follows:

Capital is stored labor. Its rights must be respected as private property it is sacred. It is necessary to labor. A country without capital is impoverished. Labor should invite it into use—never frighten it away by making it unsafe or depriving it of reasonable profits. These profits are to be measured by its value to labor, the intelligence and work stored up in it.

On the other hand, capital must respect the manhood of the wage earner and allow him, as far as it can without loss to itself, a fair wage. Extravagant and needless expenditure by capitalists do harm in irritating the poor, and should be avoided. We should not be afraid of capital in whatever form it comes. As a matter of fact, without large aggregations of capital, great enterprises are not possible, and the country is not developed. It is time enough to cry "Halt" when they do harm. If they do no harm, and on the contrary do good, they should be welcomed.

MORE MONEY VOTED TO FIGHT SMALLPOX

Mayor Wyman Asks Council to Supply a Deficiency in Two Departments.

The Allegheny bureau of health was voted an additional $25,000 last night by the finance committee of councils to fight smallpox on the North Side. Mayor James G. Wyman, Director Thomas B. Scandrett and Superintendent James A. Laughlin were present to urge the approval of an ordinance appropriating $15,000, but the committee decided that the mayor and his assistants had not properly gauged the situation and that at least $10,000 more than asked for would be required.

The ordinance authorizing the city treasurer to borrow $84,000 to meet the deficiency in the public works department for the current fiscal year was ordered printed and submitted to the city solicitor for an opinion. The applications of the public safety and the public works departments for more money to meet their expenses verifies the prediction made some time ago by Controller James Brown that the North Side would have a large deficiency at the end of the present year. There is yet six months to run and the hole in the city treasury is bound to grow much larger.

The Wyman members of the finance committee put the ordinance reducing the fees of the delinquent tax office again on the shelf, taking no action on it. It provided that the fees of the collector should be reduced to 2½ per cent. The ordinance authorizing the issue of $21,143 of bonds for the grading, paving and curbing of Shady avenue was laid over to get a written opinion from the city solicitor.

SHOOTING IN PENN TOWNSHIP IS SERIOUS

East End Man Wounded by Italians Who Were Firing at a Mark.

William Hooper of No. 1021 Locust street, of the firm of Hooper Bros., brick manufacturers of Penn township, is at East End hospital in a serious condition as a result of a shotgun wound inflicted yesterday by an Italian youth, Joseph Anthony. The story is that three Italians, armed with a shotgun and a revolver, were shooting in the vicinity of the home of John Hooper, near the brick factory.

William Hooper and his brother ordered the Italians to desist, as there were several children about who might be injured. The Italians were in the orchard near the house of John Hooper at the time. Anthony, it is said, deliberately turned his gun upon William Hooper and pulled the trigger, sending a heavy load of small shot into his abdomen and chest. Hooper fell and the Italians ran.

Drs. Taylor and Bush were summoned from Brushton and they ordered the wounded man removed to the East End hospital. Anthony gave himself up to the police and the two who were with him were arrested later by the East End police. They are Dominico Armanto and Frank Gollit of Wheeler street, Brushton, and are held as witnesses. Anthony acknowledges that he shot Hooper, but declares that he did so in self-defense. Hooper is 35 years old and single. Anthony is 17 years old and is employed as a plumber's helper.

Sunday inflammation set in and he died yesterday morning. He was born in Clearfield county and went to Braddock in 1870. He struck some more of the machinery as he fell to the ground. He was picked up unconscious and was taken to the West Penn hospital. His condition is serious.

COLORADO DEMOCRATS MET IN CONVENTION

DENVER, COL., Sept. 7.—The Democratic state convention today nominated for supreme judge, Adair Wilson, of Durango. The report of the resolutions committee was very brief. It reaffirms the Kansas City platform; declares there should be no compromise with lawlessness, condemns the use of military unless demonstrated that civil authorities are unable to enforce the law, and denounces the state board of equalization for "allowing the corporations to escape from paying their just proportion of taxes."

Billy Burgundy will tell about "The Geezer Who Finally Struck the Right Key" in The Sunday Gazette.

MORSE LEAVES $11,000 TO MAN WHO THRASHED HIM

James Walsh, an Allegheny Iron-worker, Inherits Fortune in Peculiar Manner.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—When the will of William Morse of Tioga was offered for probate it was found to contain a peculiar clause, leaving $11,000, of which $1,000 was in cash and $10,000 in valuable mining stock, to James Walsh, an iron worker of Allegheny City, Pa.

There is a romantic story connected with the case. Morse was known as a bright young fellow, but addicted to drink. Several years ago he ran across Walsh while intoxicated and was soundly thrashed, being confined to his apartments for a week. It was the turning point of his life. He determined to reform and did so, accumulating wealth. He learned the name of the man who chastised him and whom he said thus gave him his start in life, and left him the bequest as a thank offering for the effectual treatment administered.

NEW ENGLAND AUTOIST CREATED A SENSATION

John Dexter in a worn-looking automobile created a small sensation in Fifth avenue, McKeesport, yesterday, when he stopped to allow a freight train the right of way. On the front of the machine was a suspicious-looking can encased in leather. Someone in the crowd thronging the streets announced that it contained nitroglycerin and that the autoist was on his way to the oil fields with it. In a few seconds the machine and its occupant had been given a wide berth, and not until he proceeded would the crowd pass the street where the machine had stood. The driver of the machine said he was simply touring the country and that his home was in Bridgeport, Mass. He claimed to have traveled 350 miles since Sunday.

A GREAT LABOR CELEBRATION IN PITTSBURGH

TWELVE THOUSAND MEN MARCH IN THE PARADE

Quarter of a Million Spectators Applaud the Long Line of Union Men.

Natty uniforms, an abundance of good music and original ideas in the lettering of banners combined to make the parade of Greater Pittsburgh's labor organizations an interesting and entertaining spectacle. Nobody among the 250,000 people who eagerly lined the sidewalks expected to see the marchers move along with the precision of a column of trained military and the free and easy manner of the men in line had much to do with the success of the demonstration.

Over 12,000 toilers, representing every branch of organized labor, composed the long column. Each delegation was headed by at least one band, and for three hours the downtown streets re-echoed with every strain from the triumphal grand march to some catchy fragment of ragtime. For three hours the sidewalks were crowded with spectators who came to pay enthusiastic homage to the cause of unionism or to be impressed by the sturdiness and self-confidence of the men of toil. There was little attempt at decoration along the line of march, but where bunting was lacking the prolonged outbursts of applause compensated for the absence of a display of patriotic colors.

Parade Moved Promptly.

The parade was excellently handled and free from tedious delays. Shortly after 10 o'clock the right of the line moved across the Sixth street bridge and traversed the principal business thoroughfares of Allegheny, returning to the Pittsburgh side of the river via the Seventh street bridge to Penn avenue, to Sixth street, to Liberty street, to Fifth avenue, to Grant street, to Diamond street and along Forbes street to the place of dismissal in Bluff street. Just before the start was made a question arose as to whether carriages containing the speakers and officers of the organizations should be allowed to be driven by non-union drivers. For a time it appeared that the discussion would become heated and that the parade would be delayed unless union men would be placed upon the boxes of the vehicles. Chief Marshal E. A. Maginn smoothed out the rough places here, and as a result of his diplomacy every non-union driver in the procession is now likely to immediately attach himself to the carriage drivers' organization.

The structural ironworkers, carrying the same conspicuous banner which distinguished them in last year's parade, made a fine appearance. The fine physique of the men, their neat uniforms and their great number—over 2,000—all served to win approval from the spectators.

In Snow-White Jumpers.

The bill posters were received with as much good humor as if they had carried a batch of theatrical passes for free distribution. In snow white jumpers they looked the part of stage attaches and carried a section of a "three-sheet" billboard upon which was a familiar sign, "Post no bills."

The marine engineers and firemen had a good turnout, but apologized for their apparent scantiness of numbers with the hint that a coalboat rise in September had depleted their ranks. "Remember that we sent 200 good men down the Ohio on the last rise" was shouted to the spectators all along the route.

The uniforms were characteristic of the various trades, affording a view of the workingman's "full dress" jumpers. Some masqueraded as clowns, others donned the fantastic costume of the minstrel show, and many paraded with canes, flags and high hats. The bakers never overlook an opportunity to turn out in their striking white caps and aprons, and yesterday tempted the hungry by carrying a 15-foot loaf of bread which had been baked for the occasion.

Horseshoers Were Gay.

The horseshoers appeared in gaudy yellowish aprons and the bricklayers followed small boys in the uniform of the journeyman with the tools of the trade. Some of the iron moulders from lodge No. 46 rode in a gaily decorated stage coach and flaunted themselves in gaudy shirts and neckties.

The Shenango valley was represented in the demonstration by at least 3,000 men, the structural ironworkers, the tin plate workers, the pottery workers and various other trades working in union in bringing out a large force in the cause of unionism. The mine workers made an especially good showing, it being estimated that over 4,000 men were in line.

At the Sixth street bridge a disturbance occurred between the bartenders and the team drivers as to which delegation should be entitled to precedence. After several blows had been struck peace was made by allowing the wagonmen to go ahead. On reaching the disbanding place in Bluff street, the majority of the marchers hastened to Schenley park to witness the field day events.

The absence of the body of members of the Amalgamated Association disorganized the second division, which had been proposed and it was abandoned. The Glass Workers and the members of the Greenfield workers of the Amalgamated association separated into other divisions and the break in the line in many instances escaped notice.

The line of parade was as follows:

GREAT CROWDS WITNESS THE SPORTING EVENTS

Interesting Contests on Schenley Park Race Track—Names of the Winners.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 persons assembled in the grand stand at Schenley park track yesterday afternoon to witness the Labor day sports, given under the auspices of the labor unions. The majority were members of local lodges and their families, and the spirit in which they entered into the sport showed that they could play as well as they can work.

The races were open only to members of trades unions, and the union card had to be shown by each contestant before his entrance fee was accepted. With such men as E. C. McClelland, state champion, and John Hall of Fayette City, the running races were worth going miles to see. "Old Soldier" Barnes was there, too, and went into the five-mile race. He got no way near to winning, but had to be taken off the track after the race was over. He said he thought there were a few more miles to run.

Some trouble was experienced in getting the races started, and it was after 2 o'clock before the first event was called. Some delay, it is said, in printing the programs, prevented the taking of entries last week, and Clerk of Course H. J. Carey had his troubles in entering the names of all those who wanted to take part.

Brilliant Crowd of Spectators.

That society is interested in the pleasure of the workingman was demonstrated by the large number of traps and other vehicles that were crowding for room inside the fence surrounding the oval. Automobiles and rigs were driven about from one vantage point to another during the entire afternoon, and with a background of a gaily dressed throng in the grandstand, presented a very lively picture. A large squad of police officers, mounted and afoot, preserved order and had little or no trouble in handling the crowd. Lieut. Pete Dunbart, with his Second brigade band, kept the crowd in a good humor with a succession of popular airs in the intervals between races. Not an accident occurred during the afternoon with the exception of a spill in the bicycle race, and no one was injured.

Not all the races announced in the program were started, as in some there were no entries and in others only one. A peculiar contingency prevented a large number of racer contestants from participating in the hammer throwing event. Ducan Thompson, one of the committee on sports, was stricken with smallpox several days ago and both the hammers that were to have been used yesterday were quarantined with Thompson.

The sports were not finished until almost 7 o'clock, but the crowd stayed to the finish. Following are the names of the winners in the various events:

Will Not Have a Ticket.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—The Peoples party state committee held a meeting in this city today and decided not to put a ticket in the field this year. Theodore P. Rynder was re-elected chairman for the ensuing year and was authorized to appoint his own secretaries and instructed to have a full delegation at the national committee meeting at St. Louis February 22, 1904.

CROWD OF ABOUT 25,000 HANDLED BY RAILROADS

Labor Day Is Responsible for Many Fleeing from as Well as Visiting the City.

Large crowds were brought into Pittsburgh and taken from the city yesterday on all the local railroads. The incoming crowd hailed from nearly every point within a radius of 50 miles, the limit fixed by the railroads for the low rates which were in effect.

The outgoing crowd was composed of those who, living in the city, took advantage of the general holiday to get a day at the lake or in the mountains or some place where there would not be the noise, crowding and confusion from the big crowd in town. Every outgoing train was crowded with these. The Baltimore & Ohio had a special excursion of 1,500 to Conneaut Lake, and on the other roads there were many fleeing from the city.

From New Castle over the Lake Erie came the largest crowd that any out-of-town sent here. A special train was needed to handle the party. The regular equipment of all the lines was overtaxed, and from early in the morning until noon there were constant orders for more coaches. Trains came in with people standing until the aisles and platforms were filled.

The stations were full of squeezed and trodden, but still good natured humanity. Anyone who had only a short time to catch a train at the busy time had to give it up. There was no more hope of piercing that crowd than of going through an armor plate.

While no official figures are yet available as to the number who took advantage of yesterday's reduced rates, it is estimated that there were about 25,000. Of these the Pennsylvania had about 10,000, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie 8,000 and the Baltimore & Ohio 7,000.

NEW AUTUMN HOLIDAY CATCHES THE CROWDS

Typical Scenes on Downtown Throughfares Last Night Indicates Day's Popularity.

No element was lacking toward making yesterday a typical holiday. It was a genuine holiday crowd that thronged downtown thoroughfares. The people wore their best clothes and walked with that peculiar saunter that is seen in Pittsburgh only on Sundays and on special occasions when the populace turns out for promenade. The belated ones who remained downtown late last night kept up a Fourth of July revelry until early morning.

Convivial citizens were numerous. There were many who drank too much, but serious disturbances were comparatively few. Accidents were rare and trivial. In this respect Labor day is the most orderly festival on the American calendar. There is no excuse for fireworks and the main attraction is standing on the curbstone and listening to the music of the bands and in looking for familiar faces among the marchers.

"Labor day has caught the crowd," said a Pittsburgh showman last night. "This is the ideal time of year for a holiday, and the people are not slow to see the pleasures that they can have in the celebration. It offers a good opportunity for the display of new fall clothes, and the merchants have a good report to make of the heavy sales that were made last week. The theaters were crowded at both performances yesterday and everybody seemed to take it upon himself to get all the enjoyment possible out of the big celebration."

TARENTUM'S LABOR DAY.

Greatest Parade of Union Men the Borough Had Ever Seen.

Tarentum celebrated its fourth annual Labor day yesterday. The parade in the afternoon was the largest ever seen here and fully 2,000 union workmen marched on foot. There were 30 floats representing trades and products, and carriages in which some of the smaller unions rode. All the trade unions in Tarentum and vicinity were represented.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for the first time in its existence closed down on Labor day, and the men joined in the parade. All work was suspended, the mills and mines closing down, and business houses and stores also closing.

COULDN'T BE KILLED BEFORE LABOR DAY

Harry Mulvey, a bridge worker of McKees Rocks, came near not being a participant in the Labor day celebration yesterday. He has been working on the bridge at Thirtieth street, over the Allegheny river. On Sunday he was erecting false work on top of the bridge, when he stepped on a loose timber and fell 50 feet into the river. In his flight through the air his body missed the timbers and fell into the water unhurt. Mulvey came to the surface of the water and swam to the shore. Beyond a drenching, he was not injured.

"You know, I could not be killed on the eve of the parade," he said to some companions, as he got out of the water.

THIS MACHINE FLIES.

Interesting Demonstration of Possibilities of Eddy Kite at Monmouth Beach.

MONMOUTH BEACH, N. J., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—"My theory demonstrated this afternoon that with a series of kites arranged with framework that it is possible to construct a soaring or flying machine with power attached, to either fly with wind or against the wind."

So spoke [illegible] Hermann tonight concerning the experiment made with a nine-foot Eddy kite here this afternoon. The cottage colony of Monmouth was attracted to the unique demonstration. A nine-foot kite was sent up to an elevation of 300 feet.

Mr. Hermann said tonight that had the wind been as strong this afternoon as it was yesterday they could have taken a small boy up as ballast without difficulty.

WHAT THEATERS HAVE TO OFFER

OPENING OF THE AVENUE.

Pittsburgh's New Vaudeville Theater Gets a Big Send-Off. Fine Bill All Through.

Immense Labor day audiences greeted the premier performances in the New Avenue theater yesterday afternoon and last night. It looked at one time in the afternoon as if this scribe would have to make his review with the aid of the program alone, for long before the orchestra leader tapped for attention, the house was overflowing and a great line of ticket buyers obstructed the lower lobby and left hardly room for even a prowling theatrical writer to edge his way in. Luckily, Manager Davis caught up a chair from some recess and I reached a vantage point from which not only the stage but a view of the splendid new auditorium, with its handsome decorations and comfortable furnishings could be had. There isn't any question but that the Avenue is now one of the handsomest vaudeville theaters in America. Descriptions of its enlarged and changed interior have already been published. These include an addition of quite 400 to the seating capacity, a rearrangement of the balconies which not only produces an effective appearance artistically and architecturally, but leaves the view of the stage unobstructed from every spot in the house. The balcony loges are both beautiful and convenient, while the box arrangements have been so changed as to greatly enlarge their capacity. Red and green are the prevailing colors of the new auditorium. The walls are red with big gold stamping, the carpets are a soft, beautiful green, while the decorations are white and gold. A new curtain falls harmoniously into the artistic color effects, giving the whole a refined and luxurious appearance. The new Avenue is a veritable temple of vaudeville. In its details there is evidenced a careful regard for high-class conduct throughout. I was struck particularly with the class of attendants in waiting. From superintendent to ushers and call boys there is to be seen clean-cut, handsome types of men and boys. Where did Manager Davis secure so large a bunch of big, fine-looking men, and how did he get those uniforms to fit so well and have such a general appearance of elegance?

The opening of the Avenue marks a new era for vaudeville hereabouts. It lifts the whole business, which at best, is but a conglomerate form of amusement, on to a higher level and promises in the character of the house, the beauty and refinement of its furnishings and the carefulness of its management, a season of thoroughly clean entertainment. I shall have more to say of this later. Vaudeville is polyglot at best. Its danger comes from lying always on the borderland of the ridiculous or the obscene. The opening of the Avenue, so beautified and clean, is a local commentary that is worth more than passing chronicle. Evidently this is the view managers and theatrical people throughout the country take of it, for Manager Davis was fairly deluged with telegrams from different parts of the country offering congratulations and otherwise showing an inclination to get on the band wagon. The completed work at the Avenue represents a long forward step in behalf of a class of entertainment of which nine-tenths of the people are either in total ignorance or else skeptical as to its propriety, or its value in the general amusement scheme. Manager Davis is a sort of Moses, therefore, leading the way to an entirely new conception of vaudeville and one that includes the children, our wives, mothers and sweethearts, who will venture to be entertained where formerly they kept their doubts and stayed away.

Of the opening bill yesterday critical review is hardly necessary. I always feel helpless in an attempt to criticise a vaudeville bill. If you say it is all bad you go wrong. If you declare it is all good you will be even farther from the truth. The bill this week at the Avenue is fortunately selected. There is much of refinement in it. Ross and Fenton are favorites of long standing. They have a new one-act play, "Just Like a Woman," to which they give admirable expression and get out of it both fun and pathos. The Five Nosses also have a new musical act, so delicate, refined and musically entertaining as to prove one of the gems of the bill. There are several clever acrobatic and magical acts. Paulinetti and Piquo are excellent, while the Latimers do that marvelous cabinet trick, which is one of the best I ever saw. Finley and Burke made a big hit with a song and dance. Marie Littlefield has a really fine contralto voice and caught the attention of all the music lovers. Frank Bush came in time for the evening performance and his spontaneous flow of funny stories has a new flavor which is refreshing. Coleman's cats and dogs proved a splendid item for both the children and their elders. Besides these there were a half dozen or more acts of less value but all in keeping with the general excellence of the Avenue's opening. A word for the orchestra before I am done. It is a good orchestra and keeps up with vaudeville gyrations about as well as any band of players I have ever heard try it. This is saying a great deal, too.

Manager Davis deserves all the congratulations he is receiving, and those big audiences yesterday prove that Pittsburgh deserves this big, new and beautiful vaudeville house.

CHARLES M. BREGG.

Blanche Walsh in "Resurrection."

[illegible] dramatization which Henry Bataille [illegible] Michael Morton made of Tolstoy's [illegible]ously bold sex plea is an impressive [illegible] stage realism, harsh in its plain[illegible]d almost repulsive in its philoso[illegible]t appealing with an undercurrent [illegible]h sorrow and pathos that kept [illegible]ience at the Alvin last night in a [illegible] tense interest. Pittsburgh thea[illegible]rs will remember that we had [illegible] of the Tolstoy drama during the [illegible] its sensational run in New York. [illegible] Grand Stock Company presented a version, but we speak advisedly when we say it was only a taste of the real story. Miss Blanche Walsh and her company are giving us this week an unadulterated dose of the brilliant old Russian's philosophy. The two plays and the manner of their production can hardly be considered as being from the same source. The story of a woman's ruin told in almost unadorned plainness is not a pleasant stage theme. Nor can the philosophy of an attempt on the part of her original betrayer to share her degradation as an act of penance for his wrong be accepted by the average mind. These are things too deep for the average theater-goer, and even Tolstoy himself fails to preserve intact the reasonableness and continuity of his altruistic theories. But in the present instance the scenic equipment is so fine and the acting, chiefly of the central role, by Miss Walsh, is so well balanced, so artistically intelligent and magnificent that the audience was quite willing to put aside the phychological problems and enjoy acting, than which one rarely sees better. Miss Walsh is an artist by both instinct and training. She has worked hard to attain her present place, but she fully deserves its honors. Her Maslova is a wonderfully accurate and convincing portrayal. Not gifted with the physical equipment to present in the prologue youthful beauty and enthusiasm, she yet so carefully observes the law of seeming to be the character that she adds force and realism to the transformation which takes place later in the real scenes of the play. Of these she is perhaps best in the prison scene, where she denounces her former lover. Here her work rises to dramatic worthiness that is rarely equalled. It is a splendid piece of gruesome realism, and deserved the half dozen or more curtain calls that it got last night.

Miss Walsh's company is in main good. Mr. Von Mitzel as Dimitri is even effective at times and his emotionalism more than once rings false, but he has a fine stage presence and a good voice. The other characters have little to do but were thoroughly equal to the parts.

"Resurrection" is not a pleasant play. On the contrary, it is a distinctly unpleasant and grewsome presentation of a subject already overdone dramatically, and presents a serious argument in morality that no amount of arguing will ever make wholesome or fit as stage instruction or amusement. But the acting of Miss Blanche Walsh as Maslova is worth while and makes one sorry that the visits of this gifted young woman are so few and far between to Pittsburgh.

Duquesne—Vaudeville.

The opening of the Duquesne theater yesterday was a decided success, both artistically and from the box-office point of view. The house has been redecorated and renovated throughout and presented a pleasing and refreshing appearance. Probably the most pleasing offering on the program is Josephine Gassman and her pickininies whose repertoire includes some good songs and plantation jollification. Evans Lloyd and Lillian Waltone, two baritones, are tuneful singers of old and new songs. The singing of Miss Waltone of the labor song, "The Brotherhood of Man," stirred the big holiday audience to the most vociferous enthusiasm. Charles Kenna, as "The Fakir," has an original sketch full of the humor of the Diamond street hawkers. Press Elbridge is here again with most of his old jokes and the usual songs, and W. H. Murphy and Blanche Nichols made their usual hit with their "Bifurcated Girl" skit. Al. Lawson and Frances Namon did some excellent comedy cycling and bag punching, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Darrow won a round of applause by their laughable shodowgraphs, and their sand and smoke pictures. Edmund Day and company offer a quaint and entertaining sketch of old New England coast life. The one disappointment on the bill is the headliner, "Her First Divorce Case," written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and interpreted by Mattie Keene and company. If there is any merit in the playlet Miss Keene and her associates failed utterly to make the audience appreciate it. This is both surprising and regrettable. Ella Wheeler Wilcox is not unknown to fame and the reading public and that she has failed in her first effort to dramatise her thoughts will be a source of regret to her admirers.

Bijou—"King of Detectives.

Every seat in the house sold before 8 o'clock and every foot of standing room taken before the curtain was rung up gave still further evidence of the lasting popularity of the Bijou as a place of amusement for the masses. Fully 3,800 people were gathered last night to see the four-act melodrama, the "King of Detectives," and a similar number thronged the playhouse at the afternoon matinee. If they went to the Bijou because it was their old choice they were not disappointed, for Theodore Kremer's production received an even warmer welcome than greeted it last season. It was an appreciative crowd for a holiday and in the midst of the most thrilling climaxes and the funniest scenes the applause was respectful and lacked the shrieking feature that sometimes characterizes it.

The play itself, built up around a coveted will and a murder, is a thrilling production. With J. Irving White for the cunning sleuth and Alma Chester in the leading woman's part, the program has more than the usual amount of talent. A great favorite with the galleries is Charles Robinson, the vaudeville specialist, who is at home in a parody on "Hiawatha." Little Virginia Thornton played well on the same stage last season in the "Road to Ruin." The scenic features of the play are good, a novelty occurring in the last act, where the murder scene in the first act is reproduced as telling evidence in the court room by means of moving pictures.

Empire—"Beware of Men."

Two seasons' successes are to be eclipsed at the Empire theater if an opening-night crowd augurs anything. The Empire was packed last night. Every seat was sold and the S. R. O. sign was out some time before the show started. The play, "Beware of Men," by Fitzgerald Murphy, has been playing in New York for three weeks, and was very well received by the audience last night.

The story in brief of the play depicts the sad experience of a country girl, Grace Field, who leaves her home because of the harsh treatment of her father, and, going to New York, falls into the hands of a handsome gambler, Lewis Holcomb. She is followed from her home by the parish minister, Oliver Churchill, who loves her. With him come Michael Kerrigan, "an exile from Erin," Belinda Stebbins, housekeeper for Grace's father, and Silas Field, a farmer, and his wife.

The rescue of Grace from a dive into which Holcomb has taken her brings out some good acting. She eventually returns to her father's home but not until the life of the minister is endangered and his assassination attempted. The play ends with a happy reunion at the home of Grace's father, with the girl and the minister the happiest in the gathering.

The piece is well staged. The furniture and settings are very good. The part of Grace Field is taken by Miss Jean Clement, who has a winsome face and trusting manner that win the hearts of the audience at once. Alexander G. Carleton, as Lewis Holcomb, the gambler, is true to life, and H. R. Zahner as Bill Taylor, the crook, could scarcely be improved upon. He handles the "gun" slogan as well as Josiah Flynt and earns the hearty hisses of the crowd that is in sympathy with the girl and those assisting her.

The burden of the acting falls upon Mr. Robert Gemp, as the minister, Oliver Churchill, and this part is portrayed in a splendid fashion.

The comedy of the piece is furnished by Tom F. Morrissey as Michael Kerrigan, and Lillian S. Chevolin, as Belinda Stebbins. Mr. Morrissey sings songs with the brogue of a native of the "ould sod." George E. Murphy as Dickie Byrd, "a good fellow in bad company," is worthy of mention.

Academy—Cherry Blossom Burlesquers.

The "Cherry Blossoms" Burlesquers is a company new to local patrons of burlesque, and did much in the two performances yesterday to show that it ranks well with the standard organizations. The olio has an imported tinge and is especially strong for a show of this kind. "Oh Pickles," Billy Spencer and Wilber Held are guaranteed favorites and get the audience in good humor for the imported talent. Chief of these is the Alpine family of acrobats who have a bran new line of clever acrobatic stunts. Oriette Hurd and Orlettic, opera bouffe singers, scored quite a hit and were brought back repeatedly. Williamson and Gilbert's little sketch called "Klondyke" is a hot number in a cold scene. The Gotham Comedy Four are making their bow to the circuit after a long stay abroad and are catching the crowd in their old way. The two burlesques are of the extra lively sort, and the big bunch of good-looking chorus girls were encored in every one of their musical numbers, something unusual at the Academy.

"Girl from Dixie" a Success.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7.—Without the slightest qualification a hit was scored by "A Girl from Dixie" by Shubert and Nixon & Zimmerman's latest offering in the amusement line, which was presented the first time on any stage here last night. A large audience testified their appreciation by hearty applause. Each of the principals came in for his share. The production is a radical departure from the beaten paths of so-called musical comedies. Although listed as such, it is more in the nature of a comedy with musical interpolations, a large scope being afforded for the display of legitimate dramatic ability on the part of several members of the cast. Irene Bentley as Kitty Calvert, who is the girl from Dixie, scored a substantial success, her charm of manner and daintiness, as well as her unusually attractive stage appearance, winning the sympathy of the audience at once. Several of her songs received five or six encores, "Mary from Maryland" and "The Dissipated Kitten" proving especially popular.

W. C. LITTLE.

In the Traction Parks.

At the trolley parks there were large crowds, although the day was rather cool. The younger element were there in large numbers, attracted by the dancing, as all of the parks had orchestras. Kennywood had the Rocereto orchestra in the steeplechase building, where there will be free dancing all week. At Calhoun park Greffelder's orchestra held forth yesterday afternoon and evening. Oakwood had the Mozart-Brady orchestra, and Southern had the Todd-Brey orchestra. There was an immense crowd at Southern park in the evening, where Goff "the human ball of flame," was the star attraction. He smears his body with some non-combustible substance, then saturates himself with oil and gasoline, which he ignites, all this before mounting to the top of a high tree, to which is attached a wire over 200 feet long. He slides to the ground on this wire while enveloped in flame.

Miss Truax in Wheeling.

Miss Sarah Truax, the former popular leading lady at the Grand, is to be seen close by in her portrayal of Roma in "The Eternal City," Viola Allen's role of last year. With Mr. Edward Morgan, who played David Rossi all last season, the company will play a brief engagement at Wheeling on Friday and Saturday next.

Many of Miss Truax's Pittsburgh friends are going to Wheeling especially to see her in this, one of the most fascinating roles she ever had the opportunity of portraying. S. M. Weller, business manager of the company, is in the city to arrange for special railway accommodation for them, if necessary.

Victor Herbert's Music.

Victor Herbert has written some exclusive music for "Babes in Toyland," the new musical extravaganza, which comes to the Alvin theater next week. "Babes in Toyland," which has been running all summer in Chicago and comes here direct from its long and prosperous sojourn in the Windy City, is declared to be up to Mr. Herbert's previous standards, equaling if not eclipsing his previous past achievements.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

AN EXHIBITION of exceptional interest to ceramic painters will be held in Pittsburgh the last of this month, under the auspices of the Duquesne Ceramic club. This art display constitutes the traveling exhibit of the National League of Mineral Painters, of which the Duquesne Ceramic club is a member. It will be conducted in Yergan's art store, in Penn avenue, opposite the Hotel Lincoln, continuing from Tuesday, September 29, to Saturday, October 3. The exhibit includes examples of the work of several Pittsburgh women, members of the local club, among them being Miss Mabel Farren, Miss Laura Overly and Miss Marion Cowan. Miss Farren's work is the plate which was exhibited last fall in the exhibition of local painters at the Schenley and which received the gold medal. The others are represented by some of the best of their work.

This traveling exhibit was opened in New York city, May 8, where it remained a couple of weeks. It was then taken to Maine, thence to New Hampshire and now will stop in Pittsburgh, on its way to San Francisco.

The quarterly meeting of the Duquesne Ceramic club was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the Carnegie Institute. It was well attended, nearly all of the 50 members of the club being in the city. Arrangements were made for the annual reception and exhibition of the work of the local mineral painters, which will be held in the parlors of the Hotel Schenley on the evening of November 10, continuing on November 11 and 12. Three medals will be awarded at that time, a gold medal for the best work in miniature; a silver medal, for a vase with conventional design, and a bronze medal for a plate executed in the competitive course laid out by the National League of Mineral Painters. The silver and bronze medal winners will be shown in the exhibition which the league will make next year at the Louisiana Purchase exposition in St. Louis. The members of the club have been working during the summer and will make a fine display in November. The president, Miss Myra Boyd, presided over yesterday's meeting, the other officers being Mrs. Alfred Pettit, vice president; Miss Marion Cowen, secretary and Mrs. William C. Moreland, Jr., treasurer.

A Missionary Rally.

There will be a rally meeting of the Pittsburgh conference Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh district, at the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal church, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Miss Norma Frederick of North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, who is under appointment to go to India, will lead the devotional service, and Miss Phoebe A. Parkinson of Foo Chow, China, will address the meeting. Miss Jean Adams, the Pittsburgh missionary, who is so successfully managing the society's industrial work at Foo Chow, will be present with a fine display of her Chinese women's needlework, which she will be glad to dispose of. There will be handkerchiefs, doylies, table covers, dresser scrafs, embroidery, linen for waists and suits, and other articles useful and beautiful. Miss Adams will be glad to take orders for Christmas goods. Special music will be presented.

Credentials Here.

The credentials for delegates to the annual meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday. The state meeting will be held in Carlisle, October 13, 14 and 15, and is of special interest to Pittsburgh club women, who will have an opportunity for the first time of voting for one of their own number for the office of president. Accompanying the credentials were copies of the ticket nominated by the committee appointed for that purpose and the slips to be used by the delegates in voting. The ticket presents the following names: President, Miss Kate Cassatt McKnight, Twentieth Century club, Pittsburgh; vice presidents, eastern district, Mrs. Taylor Scarlett, New Century club, Kennett Square; central district, Mrs. Johnston McLanahan, Afternoon club, Chambersburg; western district, Mrs. Ida M. Houghton, Woman's Literary club, Bradford; secretary, Miss Mary Knox Garvin, Alumnae Association of the Girls' High School and Normal Schools, Philadelphia; treasurer, Mrs. Wilbur Fisk Litch, Women's club, Ardmore; directors, Mrs. Horace Brock, Woman's club, Lebanon; Mrs. Ellis Lewis Campbell, Saturday club, Wayne; Mrs. Wilbur F. Rose, New Century club, Philadelphia; Mrs. P. M. Speer, Belles Lettres club, Oil City.

Held Their First Meeting.

The members of the East End Young Women's Christian association held their first meeting of the season yesterday. A class in physical training has been taught in previous years, but without a gymnasium. This year the members have fitted up a gymnasium with up-to-date apparatus. The cooking and literature classes are also new features of the year just beginning. There is also an employment agency connected with the association. Regular meetings of the association are held every Monday evening, one other evening of the week being set aside as literary evening. Tomorrow the members will hold an all-day sewing. The association has a membership of about 150, which is steadily growing. Mrs. W. L. Fickes is secretary.

Coming Convention.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union of Allegheny county convenes today and tomorrow in the First United Presbyterian church, Allegheny. Both morning and afternoon sessions will be held each day. Mrs. H. H. Forrest, president, will call the meetings to order, and among the speakers will be Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, superintendent of legislation in the national and world's temperance union. Mrs. Ellis led the temperance forces in the anti-canteen crusade.

Wimodausis Meets Today.

In Syria temple the Wimodausis club meets today. The hours are from 2 o'clock until 5, tea will be served and an informal reception for the officers will be held. Mrs. W. A. Lincoln is president of the club.

Knew Number of the Bill.

Joe Bukovitch had a $10 bill numbered 2228. When he awoke in his Lawrenceville boarding house yesterday he was short $36. He told the police, who arrested Mike Hurisch, who had bill No. 2228 in his pocket.

SOCIETY.

LABOR DAY was the signal for the breaking up of the congenial parties which have made merry at the summer resorts this season. Coming later in the month than usual it prolonged the summer season by a few days, delaying by so much the autumn season in the mountains, which will be in full swing during the remaining days of September.

Fashionable sports prevailed yesterday both in the east and at the country clubs in Western Pennsylvania. The regatta of the Larchmont Yacht club and the opening of the horse show at Newport enlisted the attention of a number of Pittsburgh people who remained in the east for those events, summer residents from all sections of Long Island, from Watch Hill and Magnolia participating in both events.

At home the day was quietly spent at the clubs, golf attracting a number to the courses of the Allegheny Country club, where the day concluded with informal dinners and music. At the Country club in the Beechwood boulevard, the day was passed in the same quiet manner, many members of the club driving out for dinner in the evening.

The regatta of the Oakmont Boat club yesterday afternoon was attended by several large parties which went out from the city and remained for dinner and for the excursion in the houseboat in the evening.

About 1,000 people witnessed the races. In the first race, the double-oar, there were six contesting crews, Walter Schnabel and George McCandless coming in first. George Hamilton captured the silver cup in the swimming race, in which two other members of the club contested. The tub race proved to be the most exciting and amusing of the afternoon, Elmer Warner winning. Harry G. Budd, against four contestants, came out first in the single-oar race. The same number entered in the diving race, with Frank Keating as winner.

Mrs. William H. Cooper, Miss Cora Lee and Mrs. J. T. Anderson had charge of the dinner at the boathouse, where about 250 guests were served. The members had intended to illuminate their boats and ride to Twelve Mile island, but these plans were abandoned, an excursion on their houseboat, which has been anchored at the foot of C street, taking the place of the illumination.

The club now numbers about 85 members, and arrangements are being made for the purchasing of ground and the erection of a $3,000 clubhouse. Nearly 150 invitations have been issued for the club dance, to be held next Thursday evening in the G. A. R. hall Verona, the pavilion at Hulton grove, where the last dance was held, having been torn away by its owners.

The officers of the club are, Clarence P. Tiers, commodore; Alfred M. Lee, first vice commodore; William T. Drill, second vice commodore; Frank M. Alexander, treasurer; Allan Hill, secretary; J. R. Johnston, William T. Drill and A. Samuel Meals. The committee on sports and entertainments is composed of Alfred M. Lee, chairman; William Alexander, J. Perry Leard, H. Anderson and William T. Drill. The property committee has for its chairman, William T. Drill. Among the members are George P. Loomis, Frank H. Skelding, George Maclum, W. Emerson Bargar, William A. Tomlinson, Thomas A. Hunter, Jr., William E. Bair, Orlando Metcalf, Robert A. Lee, Walter Schnabel, Arthur G. Burgoyne, Jr., Bert Kunselman, J. Nevin Witherspoon, John Moyer, Jr., Robert D. Belwood, Jr., M. Scott Verner, W. Howard Nimick, Caleb C. Lee, Howard Nicholson, Frank A. Cooper, Dr. William H. Cooper, John T. Anderson, David Maxwell, Harry Garrison Budd, Harry Rowand, Clarence P. Tiers, John L. Marshall, Harry Hardcastle, Charles Bailey, Benjamin Martin, H. S. Paul and Tabor Johnston.

Preparing for Work.

The faculty and members of the Central Young Women's Christian Association are making plans for the opening of the season on October 1. The classes are rapidly growing, although the first registration day is not until September 22. Two other registration days follow, September 26 and 29, before the opening day. None of the newly or re-elected teachers have as yet arrived at the association, but all are expected shortly. Miss Florence Brown, general secretary, returned last week from Rochester, where she was the guest of her mother, after attending the conference at Lake George. Miss Pence and Miss Chapel have also returned, Miss Pence after an absence in Colorado and Miss Chapel after attending a conference at her home in Plymouth. Miss Adams is not expected in Pittsburgh until the first of next month. Mrs. Seifer, who is at present at Tarentum, being expected at the same time. During Mrs. Seifers' absence the work at the Lawrenceville branch, of which she is secretary, has been carried on by the members. Miss Root, matron at the association annex, is back from a visit to her mother at Clifton. Miss Mackenzie of the South Side branch is also among the number who have returned. Miss Barsley came back to the city on Wednesday last, having made a visit with Miss Turner, the gymnasium teacher, at Avery, O. Miss Barsley also stopped at Cape May during her vacation.

Will Take a Professorship.

Mr. George Breed Zug, who in the spring accepted a professorship in the University of Chicago, is still in Paris, where he has been almost continuously for many months, but is expected home in November. He will not take up his duties in Chicago until the first of next year, and will then be attached to the department of art and archaeology, his specialty being the art of the renaissance, a period to which he has confined his studies for several years, his lectures on the subject having attracted very favorable criticism. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Zug of Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Zug and their daughter, Miss Emma Zug, returned a few days ago from Shelter Island, Mt. Desert, where they spent a portion of the summer. Their daughter, Mrs. Wherry of New York and their son, Charles G. Zug, were with them, the latter still remaining in Maine. The earlier part of the summer was spent in Canada in the region about Montreal and Quebec.

Crossing the Atlantic.

Miss Myra Boyd, president of the Duquesne Ceramic club, is planning to spend the winter and spring in Paris. She will not go abroad until after the annual exhibition of the club, in which she is deeply interested. In Paris she proposes to continue her work in ceramics.

Mr. H. J. Heinz is at the Kissingen Springs, Germany, with his sisters, but expects to return to Pittsburgh early in October. Mr. Howard Heinz is now in London, but will return to America with his father. After their arrival there will be a family reunion at the Heinz mansion in Homewood, for Miss Hetty Heinz, who is now with her brother in Germany, has been abroad for over four years, most of the time being spent in Paris, though she has toured Europe with Mr. Heinz during his frequent trips abroad. Last winter they were in Spain.

Summer Travelers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Taylor and their daughters are at Spring Lake, N. J., where Mrs. Taylor is recovering from a serious illness.

Mrs. John Q. Everson and her younger daughter, Miss Mary Everson, returned on Saturday from Beach Haven, N. J., where they spent August. Miss Grace Everson, who was also at Beach Haven with her mother and sister, will make a short visit in Shippensburg before coming home.

Mrs. John M. Oakley of Philadelphia, who is a former Pittsburgher, and her son, Mr. Thornton Oakley, are in Islesboro, Me., where they will remain until the close of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, who returned to Philadelphia a few days ago from a trip to Colorado Springs, are now the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel at Chisholm, their new villa in North Islesboro, Me.

The Rev. Samuel C. Barnes, former pastor of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, and Mrs. Barnes, who are now living in Worcester, Mass., spent the summer in the Adirondacks. Mr. Charles H. Edsall of Coltart square visited them during August.

Gillan—Tweedie.

Miss Lillian Gillan and Ralph E. Tweedie were married yesterday morning at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Gillan of Esplanade street, Allegheny. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alonzo P. Turkle, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Allegheny, in which the bride is an active worker as superintendent of the Junior society. Mr. Tweedie is in charge of the construction of the Wabash railroad between Steubenville and Pittsburgh. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom were present at the wedding, which took place at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. After a wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Tweedie left for a tour of the eastern cities. They will make their home in Esplanade street with the parents of the bride.

The Friends at Home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wood Friend and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McClure arrived in Pittsburgh last week from New York. While in the metropolis they were at the Waldorf-Astoria, having gone from the Thousand Islands in Mr. Friend's chartered yacht, The Idler, to witness the races between the Reliance and Shamrock III. Miss Elizabeth Friend, Miss Rebecca Friend and Charles Wood Friend sailed last week for Europe, where they will spend some time. After seeing them off, their parents returned home. The Idler, the speediest yacht in the Thousand Islands, was badly crushed in a collision with the Mollie C., a New York boat, and has been taken to Alexandria Bay for repairs. It was one of the handsomest and speediest yachts in the St. Lawrence river and has been chartered by Mr. Friend the last two seasons.

M. SANTOS DUMONT IS LIONIZED AT RIO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 7.—(Special Cable.)—M. Santos Dumont had an imposing reception this morning. Hundreds of launches were in the bay awaiting the arrival of the steamer. The government had ordered that the old vessel in which King Joao landed here should convey M. Santos ashore. The spontaneous enthusiasm of the populace was indescribable. A long procession of carriages containing representatives of the state and municipal authorities and all the scientific and literary societies were drawn up alongside the quay.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The stomach is the vital center of the body. It is the organ from which all other organs are fed. A weak stomach means a weak man. There never was a strong man with a weak stomach. What is called "weak stomach" is in general a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, which prevents the proper digestion of the food which is taken into the stomach and so reduces the nutrition of the body. When all food is taken away the body starves. When the food eaten is only digested and assimilated in part it only nourishes the body in part, and so the body is partly starved. And this starvation is felt in every organ of the body dependent on the blood which is made from food.

The great variety of the cures performed by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its remarkable power to heal diseases of the stomach and allied organs. It cures through the stomach diseases seemingly remote, but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition. "Weak" heart, lungs, kidneys and weakness of other organs is cured with the cure of the weak stomach.

Mr. Thomas A. Swarts, Box 103, Sub-Station C., Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I was taken very sick with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble, and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. The more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die, thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles I was weighed and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) lbs. in about six weeks. I have done more hard work in the past eleven months than I did in two years before, and I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

A GREAT LABOR STRIKE.

Millions of Workers Out

One of the greatest labor strikes you can possibly imagine is that which takes place in your body when you eat improper food. Your body is a workshop and in it are millions and millions of workers—tissue builders. In the stomach alone there are more than five million of these workers, whose business it is to devise the means to build the body. If the food you eat is of a poor quality these five million toilers—these five millions of little microscopic pepsin makers—strike, and millions and millions of other tissue builders in other parts of the body also strike through sympathy. They may strike for but a short time, but it is long enough to throw a lot of the delicate and intricate machinery in that wonderful workshop of yours out of repair and cause all manner of trouble.

The way to avoid labor strikes in the body is to supply that vast horde of artisans which build it with proper food material, and for this purpose there is nothing so good as Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit, the only naturally porous food made from wheat. It is light, crisp, wholesome, and can be digested with ease. Shredded Wheat makes rich, red blood—blood that makes strong men, women, and children.

"I have used Shredded Wheat Biscuits in hospital practice and find the results highly satisfactory. They are especially beneficial in cases of indigestion, complicated with constipation."—Albert A. Taft, M. D., Carney Hospital, Boston, Mass.

"As a digestive, and in cases of chronic constipation and dyspepsia, Shredded Wheat acts as one of the very best remedies I have ever prescribed."—B. F. Anderson, M. D. Colorado Springs, Col.

CONSTABLES ARE HEARD IN COURT

Were Closely Questioned About Speakeasies in Country Districts.

LICENSE TRANSFERS MADE

Judge Evans Handed Down a Long Lot of Successful Applicants, Refusing But One Out of Sixty—Some Papers Were Irregular.

Judge Elliott Rodgers yesterday occupied the bench in criminal court and received the quarterly returns of the constables. Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr., was present and interrogated a number of the constables in a decidedly sharp manner.

Andrew J. Pegher of Franklin township was ordered to report at the next term the names of the bottlers, who, his return states, are selling cases of beer from the wagon.

Elias W. Wilkinson of Collier township was asked about a club or camp in his district, the questions charging that the club had sold chicken legs at $1 apiece and added all the liquor a man could drink to the bargain. The constable said his information was limited to the fact that such conditions existed, and he was then told he would be given a list of the parties who conducted the places.

Constable George Nelson of Chartiers was asked about alleged speakeasies in his district, but he professed he was unable to elicit any information by inquiry of the neighbors of supposed speakeasy keepers. He was told to investigate.

Matters are quiet at Clairton, according to the constable of Jefferson township. Wilkinsburg was also reported as law-abiding.

Did Not Want to Pay Costs.

Constable McMeans of the Third ward and Constable McCarthy of the Fourth ward, McKeesport, were questioned by the court. Constable Means said he had made information before Alderman W. D. Mansfield against Sofia Ellis, whom the court had mentioned, but the alderman said it would be useless to return the woman to court, as the constable would have the costs placed on him.

McCarthy said he had experienced trouble in prosecuting persons for alleged liquor selling, and that Alderman J. B. Thompson and Alderman Fitler had refused to take informations.

"Do you know the name of the wholesaler who supplies the illegal dealers in McKeesport?" asked the court.

"Fred Steckel, Fifth and Blackberry," McCarthy replied.

The constables were examined about slot machines, but Means said he had refused to permit any one to install them. The constables of Pittsburgh and Allegheny got off with few questions being asked them.

Edward Hirsch of Sharpsburg was committed to jail yesterday on a bench warrant for contempt of court. He is charged with a criminal offense and when he failed to appear for trial Judge J. R. Macfarlane issued a bench warrant.

License Transfers Allowed.

Judge Evans, sitting in quarter sessions court yesterday, handed down his decision in a number of the applications for transfer of liquor licenses, the arguments on which were made Saturday. Part of the list came in the morning and the balance in the afternoon, but there are still some cases undecided. There was but one refusal and that was an application for permission to move from one house to another. One bottler's and one wholesaler's transfer was granted and the rest were for retail license. Those granted were as follows:

William Schutte, retail, from George W. Miller, East Pittsburgh; James Thornton, retail, from Theresa A. Huston, No. 901 Federal street, Allegheny; Charles W. Willman, retail, from Jeremiah D. Blackburn, Tustin and Brady streets; Jacob Dahiem, retail, from No. 316 Diamond street to No. 109 Diamond street; Frank S. McTighe, retail, from John F. Newman and Frank S. McTighe, No. 2400 Wylie avenue; Frank McPartland, retail, from William Collins and Frank McPartland, River road, Mifflin township; John Voight, retail, from Carl L. Wilkewitz, Nos. 906 and 908 East street, Allegheny; George W. Gavbart, retail, from Oscar Croker, Nos. 1234 and 1236 Rebecca street, Allegheny; John Gorman, retail, from Edward Buechel, Southern avenue, Knoxville; Charles Vowinkel, retail, from Daniel Olmstead, No. 134 Sixth street; Gustavus A. Yeager, retail, from Jacob Kuster, No. 4339 Butler street; Martin Muck and William Glaser, retail, from Duncan Campbell, Nos. 409 and 411 Braddock avenue, Braddock; Charles Weidman, retail, from John Kalb, No. 47 Frankstown avenue; Charles Herman, retail, from P. J. Minahan, North Canal and Clay streets, Sharpsburg; Anthony Drazynski, retail, from William J. Ryan, No. 2417 Penn avenue; Herman Gartner, retail, from John V. Stoer, No. 1800 Fifth avenue; G. A. Schuckert, retail, from Charles H. Jung, Nos. 900 and 902 Main street, Sharpsburg; John Prassak, retail, from Peter Gallagher, Nos. 18 and 20 Braddock avenue, Braddock; Rudolph Sauermilch, retail, from August H. Poske, No. 1700 Forbes street; Cornelius J. Keller, retail, from Jacob Keller, No. 642 Smithfield street; Joseph Feracy, retail, from W. D. Schneider, Nos. 1323 and 1325 Rebecca street, Allegheny; A. B. Ingenito, retail, from Gustav H. Ditrick, State street, Clairton; Henry and William Dickenbaugh, retail, from Theodore Bodenhagen, No. 1731 Carson street; George Galya, retail, from Joseph C. Gimerky, No. 1107 Washington avenue, Braddock; John A. Carlson and Albion Anderson, retail, from Joseph L. Walker, No. 720 Braddock avenue, Braddock; John W. Pori, retail, from Exchange building, Bridge street, to Bridge and Franklin streets, Allegheny; Elizabeth Caxon, retail, from Sidney and South Twenty-fifth streets to No. 50 South Twenty-fifth street; Frank K. McKelvey, retail, from No. 314 Diamond street to No. 410 Diamond street; Peter Amon, retail, from Michael Pesluszny, No. 2000 Penn avenue; Philip and Leo J. Gross, retail, No. 1834 Main street, Sharpsburg; Charles G. Klaus, retail, from David Crawford, Nos. 202 and 304 Sixth street; John Beck, retail, from Louis Volz, No. 17 Southern avenue, Mt. Oliver; Michael F. Kine, retail, from Thomas Murphy, Sixteenth and Clay streets, Sharpsburg; Albert Marenell, retail, from John Lietke, No. 3221 Penn avenue; Henry Muth, wholesale, from Arthur Andriessen, No. 216 Federal street, Allegheny; John Frederick Hell, bottler, from Jacob Rinn, Nos. 1619 and 1621 Forbes street.

The one applicant refused was Elizabeth Henderson of Island avenue, Stowe township. She asked permission to move from one house to another. The court said that her house is as well suited for license as it was when she applied in the spring, and there was no necessity for a change.

While it is not known that all the others held over will be granted, it is understood that this is practically the case. The delay in handing down the remaining decisions is due to irregularities in the papers. In one case the bond is not in proper form, in others the stipulation about the house being closed for 10 days pending transfer is omitted. When such matters are corrected the court will act and in the meantime Judge Evans wants to see the lawyers interested in the cases.

MAGISTRATES ADVISED ON JUVENILE COURT ACT

District Attorney Haymaker Issues Circular Letters to Avoid Confusion Under the Law.

District Attorney John C. Haymaker has issued a circular letter to magistrates of the county relative to the juvenile court act, advising them as to the steps to be taken when youthful criminals come under their jurisdiction. He also calls attention to the probation officers' duties, and advises them to assist in disposing of youthful offenders and not to shield them from arrest or confinement when the occasion warrants. Copies of the circular letter were given to the constables when they made their returns in criminal court yesterday.

The letter was written to aid the magistrates and to avoid the confusion that exists under the act. It advises that informations should be taken in the regular and usual manner in all cases against children charged with indictable offenses, the child to be arrested and committed as usual, but to have an immediate hearing when practicable. The probation officer is to be notified and bail may be taken as in other cases. The magistrates' court form is to be filled in, in all cases, and returned with the information to the clerk of courts office.

In case of petitions they may be made out and verified by any citizen of the county, setting forth the facts relative to the child. These must be presented in open court and the child is not to be arrested except upon order of court. The petition form is the usual one asking the court to inquire into the conduct and habits of an alleged bad boy or girl. The petition must be sworn to by the person making it.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The Standard Ore Company of Helena, which recently bonded the celebrated Jay Gould mines, has a force of men putting the property in shape for vigorous development. The Gould was one of the noted old-time producers of Montana, and experts believe that large amounts of high grade ores will be taken out of it in the future.

Work on the mill for the Farmer group in Scratch Gravel district, five miles from Helena, will begin at once. The shaft is down 200 feet and the lead at that point is seven feet wide, the ore averaging $6 per ton, while assays run as high as $200 per ton.

Assays from the ore in the new vein in the Big Indian mine, four and one-half miles from Helena, show as high as $344 in gold per ton. The vein is large and strong.

The Copper King, north of Bowerman camp, will be shipping ore before many days. It is owned by C. A. Dewey of Pitkin and A. G. Burton of Cripple Creek. They are now arranging for heavy development.

A letter from Roosevelt, Idaho, says: "R. W. Purden, manager of the Sunnyside mine, has come in, accompanied by Mrs. Purden, Mrs. Donchoo, Miss Pedder and Mr. Russell of Pittsburgh. This was the first horseback riding the three latter had ever done, hence the trip was a hard one. They are all heavy stockholders in the Sunnyside and are very well pleased with the management and the showing. With every shift's work values increase in the Sunnyside.

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Money 1½@1¾ per cent. The rate for short bills is 3 5-16@3 7-16 per cent. The rate for three months' bills is 3⅝@3¾ per cent. Consols for money, 89¾; consols for account, 90. The money market was easy today. Discounts were steady. On the stock exchange business was quiet but the tone was good. The eve of the settlement and the celebration of Labor day at New York had the effect of checking business. Consols were in better demand. Americans were almost stagnant but were quietly cheerful. There were a few advances in these stock on New York purchasing orders. The New York bank statement Saturday was not regarded favorably but did not induce much selling. The market for Americans closed firm. Kaffirs had a firm undertone. The feature of the transactions in foreigners was the firmness shown by Turks on Paris buying.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—Prices on the boerse today were firm, but the transactions were light.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Prices generally on the bourse today opened firm. Internationals became irregular and rentes heavy. At the close prices were firm and business was quiet. The private rate of discount was 2 9-16 per cent.

CONNELLSVILLE'S BIG PARADE

Organizations from the Coke Region Helped to Swell the Great Throng. Four Thousand in Line at East Liverpool—New Kensington Celebration.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Sept. 7.—Thousands of laboring men and their friends from throughout the coke region gathered in Connellsville today and helped the Central Trades and Labor council celebrate Labor day. It was the greatest day Connellsville ever had. The streets were simply covered with people all day. All business was given up. The parade surpassed anything of the kind ever seen here. It was nearly two miles in length. The parade disbanded at Newmayer park, where dinner was served to all free of charge by the Central Trades and Labor Council of Connelsville.

F. S. McCollough of Michigan, a member of the national board of the United Mine Workers of America, who came here as a special representative of President John Mitchell, delivered an address, as also did John Spargo of New York, editor of the Comrade. The Rev. J. C. Cobb and the Rev. Father John T. Burns of Connellsville also delivered addresses.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Labor day was celebrated with enthusiasm seldom witnessed in this city and the demonstration was a most imposing one. Nearly 4,000 working people, representing the 36 labor unions of the city, were in the parade, with G. B. M. Bailey, president of Trades council, as chief marshal. The afternoon was given over to a big picnic at Rock Springs park.

NEW KENSINGTON, PA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—New Kensington celebrated Labor day by a parade through the main streets from New Kensington to Arnold. The marchers consisted of borough officials, fire departments, bands and unions.

Industrial Floats in Line.

MEYERSDALE, PA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Labor day was celebrated as never before in the history of Somerset county. Work was generally suspended. This morning there was a monster parade in which were floats representing the various industries of the town and community. A labor mass meeting attended by nearly 5,000 persons was held in Slicers park. Mark M. Smith, national board member, United Mine Workers of America, introduced the following speakers: The Rev. A. E. Truxal, D. D., the Rev. Francis M. Biddle, and the Rev. B. B. Collins, A. M.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—About 1,000 miners organized a parade here today and marched to the fair grounds, where a big celebration in honor of Labor day was held. A large crowd listened to an oration by W. Y. Swope, district attorney of Clearfield county.

ALTOONA, PA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Labor day was celebrated more elaborately than ever before in this city. Every business house was closed and the 5,000 workmen of the Pennsylvania shops marched in line with the clerks and other employes of the city. The chief marshal was president of select council, Louis Casey.

Henry George Spoke.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 7.—(Special.) Fully 5,000 persons listened to an address made by Henry George at the Avon park, to the workingmen of this city. Mr. George arrived this morning and was given a reception by representatives of the unions. He was entertained by a committee of the Central labor union.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—This was distinctively labor's day in Cumberland. The big parade had 2,500 men in line. With the Bricklayers' Union was Joseph Hughes, a veteran bricklayer, who is still in active employment at 82. Miss Edith Kirby, a linotype machine operator, rode in a carriage with the Cumberland Typographical Union No. 244. At the head of the miners rode Daniel Young, president of District No. 16, United Mine Workers of America. Among the speakers at Narrows park were P. J. Conlin, first vice-president of the International Association of Machinists; Henry Wright, of Charleston, W. Va., and J. E. Stanley, of Baltimore, supreme chief of the Brotherhood of Car Repairers, Car Builders and Railway Mechanics.

Fully 8,000 organized workmen and 100 floats were in the parade. M. A. Tighe of Pittsburgh and A. W. WOMEN DISCOVER FLOATING CORPES

Body of Drowned Man Drifts Under Young's Pier at Atlantic City.

QUICKLY BROUGHT ASHORE

Heroic Efforts Made to Resuscitate the Ocean's Victim Were Futile—He Was J. F. Sippie of Moorestown, N. J.—Had Been Dead Some Hours.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7.

Another drowning occurred off the end of New York avenue about noon today. What appeared to a group of women sitting on Young's pier about 1:45 o'clock to be a log of wood turned out to be a corpse of J. F. Sipple, 25 years old, of Moorestown, N. J., who had gone down unseen and had been washed in under the pilings. The women gave the alarm immediately and Morris Meade of Philadelphia dove from the pier to recover the body. Life Guard Moore dashed into the surf and together they brought the man ashore. An effort was made to resuscitate the man. Life Guards Schallowitz, Parker and Boyer also came to the scene in order to aid in the work of reviving the unconscious form. Dr. E. H. Rogers of Brooklyn, who chanced to be on the beach, directed the work of resuscitation. The body was rolled on barrels, slapped, given artificial respiration and subjected to every known expedient resorted to in the reviving of a drowning person, but the effort was futile. It is quite probable he was dead some time before he was discovered. The guards, however, did not desist until all hope was gone and the doctors, for by this time the hospital ambulance and attendants had arrived, pronounced him dead. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Undertaker Crowley.

CONCLUSIONS OF AN EXPERT

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—The Philadelphia News Bureau will tomorrow publish the following as bearing upon the question of the continuance of dividends on United States Steel common stock:

There does not appear to be good ground for any expectation that the Steel Corporation will suspend or reduce dividends on common stock, even should the trade get in considerably worse shape than it is now. The fact must be borne in mind that the various declines in iron and steel products in the past four months scarcely at all effect corporation earnings. This is clear from an inspection of the table of production of "rolled and other finished products for sale" in the last annual report. Not an item in this table of the least importance has been reduced in price so far as the corporation is concerned. Billets are lower than last year, but the corporation did not sell billets at the higher prices, having none to spare. Premiums on plates, beams, merchant bars, etc., have disappeared, but the corporation did not accept premiums on these lines last year. Pig iron is lower, but the corporation buys pig iron instead of selling it. The corporation sells only a little coke, and the market price now is scarcely lower than the contract price of last year, at which alone the corporation sold.

The Profits Per Ton.

The fact is, that theoretically the corporation would be hit much harder by the reductions made last fall in merchant pipe, sheets, tin plate and wire. Sweeping reductions were made in all these. Soon after about half the reductions in tin plate and wire were restored. That the corporation did not, however, lose materially by these reductions is shown by the earnings of the first half of 1903, the reduced price being almost made up by the greater tonnage production, and there is no record of the corporation's tonnage production beyond the calendar year of 1902.

With a large surplus, ample working capital, a large balance of cash in bank, and various appropriations available for improvements, it is not to be supposed that the corporation would stop to reduce common stock dividends unless it were expected that such changed payments would be required over a long period. No change for a short period could be expected.

It is, therefore, pertinent to inquire what the corporation's profit per ton must be in the comparatively near future to maintain all obligations outside of common stock dividends. As this analysis contemplates the corporation getting down to bed rock in the matter of selling prices, it is perfectly fair to assume that it will run full time and capture all the trade it needs at whatsoever price it is necessary to sell at. Then its production of "rolled and other finished products for sale" is not at all likely for 1904 to be under Tons.

Such production in 1902	8,197,232
Two year's increase for improvements, etc.	1,500,000
Union Steel Co. production	600,000
One-half Clairton Steel Co. production	150,000
	10,447,232

The Corporation's Obligations.

This estimate errs on the side of conservatism, since (1) it takes no cognizance of the corporation's becoming more self-sustaining by increasing its production of pig iron more than of finished material; (2) it eliminates entirely profits from the sale of coke, copperas and cement and its profit in the manufacture of spelter.

The entire obligations of the corporation outside of common stock may be summarized as follows:

	Face.	Int.	Skg. fds.
Sub. bonds, etc.	$59,035,827	$8,054,766	$1,500,000
Union Steel bonds	37,626,000	1,881,300	752,520
Clairton 5s ½	5,125,000	256,250	340,000
First 5s	303,757,000	15,187,850	3,037,570
Second 5s	220,000,000	11,000,000	1,248,000
Pref. Stock	310,281,100	21,719,677	....

making a total interest, preferred dividend and sinking fund charge of $60,277,933. The figures are not absolutely exact, but are a very close approximation. The interest on various subsidiary company bonds, etc., varies from 4½ to 8 per cent, and the sinking fund requirement is estimated by averaging the dates of maturity of the 38 different issues, and computing a 5 per cent sinking fund to meet them. The actual issue of first 5s is set down, this being less than the authorized issue, because the remaining Carnegie Company bonds for which they provided stand in the total of subsidiary company bonds, and greater than the amount actually outstanding, because the amount issued, but not outstanding, is in the hands of the trustees of bond sinking funds, and still bears interest.

Requirements for Depreciation.

Dividing $60,277,933 by 10,447,232 gives $5 75 per ton of ultimate finished product as the amount necessary to be realized to meet everything except common stock dividends and depreciation. Depreciation of manufacturing plants may well be figured to be met by repairs and improvements before net profits are ascertained. Depreciation of mineral properties must be figured otherwise. Three courses are open: First, assume that the recent market values of corporation securities represent the real value of the properties, in which case bond retirement more than covers exhaustion of minerals; second, assume that the actual face value of securities must fall on the properties, in which case the bonds represent only about half the mineral properties being exhausted, calling for the setting aside of half the value of minerals used in a depreciation account; third, be ultra-conservative and set aside the whole value in a depreciation account. Taking the last course and noting that the minerals exhausted have nothing to do but retire the face value of securities, their current interest charges being met in the $5 75 per ton the profit found above, it takes 1 2-3 tons of ore to make a ton of pig iron, and roughly 1 1-3 tons of pig iron to make a ton of finished product, or, allowing for the scrap returned two tons of ore to one ton of finished product. The corporation has more than a ton of ore for each dollar of capitalization outside of manufacturing, transportation, etc., properties, but allowing a dollar gives $2 per ton of finished product, and allowing 50 cents additional, which is ample to cover the capitalization of coal and natural gas properties, gives a total of $2 50.

If then the corporation makes $8 25 per ton of ultimate finished product it can:

First—Pay all bond interest and preferred dividends.

Second—Retire all bonds.

Third—Replace with manufacturing properties or investments the capitalized value of all minerals, not taking credit for the fact that bond retirement itself balances at least half such capitalized value.

Considering past profits in the iron business a profit of $8 25 per ton of finished product is a very paltry one, including all the profits of mining, transportation and manufacturing. On the lowest prices ever recorded for each of the lines, it represents about 25 per cent profit for a concern which will be paying very little indeed for anything outside of labor, taxes and a portion of its new machinery.

In the Oil Fields

Reports from the lower southwest fields were very light yesterday. There are but two wells attracting any unusual attention at this time. The one is the South Penn Oil Company's test on the E. W. Sole farm, located northeast of the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county, near the Showalter gusher. It was drilled in the top of the stray sand last Saturday and was shut down to move back the boiler. The other is the wildcat on the Bickett farm, near Milton, Cabell county, W. Va. This well is so far removed from production that operators are anxious to know what it will do when drilled deeper. The present week will probably settle all speculation as to what will be its status as a producer. Neither well was heard from yesterday.

In the Pine Grove district, in Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 4 on the Ruth Joliffe farm into the sand and after giving it a shot has a show for a 50-barrel producer. To the northeast of the extension considerable new work has been shut down or held back awaiting developments in the vicinity of the Showalter producer. Leaseholders are very much at sea as to which way the producing formation extends. In all 25 or more wells started within a radius of three-fourths of a mile from the Showalter well.

In the Whisky Run extension, on Bonds creek, Ritchie county, the Bonds Creek Oil & Gas Company has completed its No. 7 on the Mehaney heirs' farm and has a show for a 30-barrel producer in the Keener.

To the northeast of the development the same company is due in the sand at a test on the F. L. Hamilton farm. Some years ago, when the old Whisky Run pool was developed, a dry hole was drilled on the upper end of this farm. There are now four wells in the extension producing 100 barrels a day each. A few months ago there were more than a dozen in the list.

North of the old Kyle pool on Indiana creek, the Philadelphia Company has started to drill at a test on the C. B. Riggs farm. The Riggs farm adjoins the Absalom Thomas farm, on which the Philadelphia Company last month completed a 25-barrel producer.

In the St. Marys district, Pleasants county, the United States Oil & Coal Company has drilled its second test on the M. E. Oliver farm through the Big Injun sand and found that formation barren.

In the St. Marys district, the Capital Oil Company is due in the sand at its second test on the A. B. Gale farm and the Octo Oil Company is starting a test on a part of the Sol Bills farm. East of the Folsom district, in Harrison county, the South Penn Company's No. 4 on the G. W. Talkington farm has declined to 150 barrels a day.

In the Lewisville district, on Rich fork, Monroe county, F. P. Hue has drilled his No. 7 on the G. W. Kyser farm through the Keener and has a show for a 10-barrel pumper in that formation.

In the same district the Carter Oil Company is drilling tests on the J. A. Devoe and Joe Turner farms. In the same district Stout & McCandlish are drilling a test on the H. H. Claus farm.

In the Brush creek district, Allegheny county, W. A. Goehring & Co. have drilled their No. 8 on the Dora Ott farm through the 100-foot and have a 35-barrel producer.

Runs and shipments were not reported yesterday.

SOCIETY MAID ELOPED WITH A LIVERYMAN

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Sept. 7.—Cloyetta Brownlow, daughter of Congressman W. P. Brownlow, of Jonesboro, last night eloped with Mark E. Pritchett, a liveryman. They were married at Bristol. The attentions of Pritchett to Miss Brownlow are said to have been opposed by the congressman, hence the elopement. The young lady was a favorite in Washington social circles during the past season, when she made her debut.

HAY AND GRAIN RECEIPTS FELL OFF

Potatoes Weaker in Market. Light Receipts of Poultry. Butter Up 1-4 Cent.

Receipts of hay and grain fell off considerably from one week ago, only 77 cars being received yesterday as against 129 cars the previous Monday. The effect of this is shown plainly in the market, which is very firm at prices quoted. The receipts of hay received last week were nearly all cleaned up and there is a stiff demand for No. 1 grades. Oats went up a half cent yesterday, in response to an increased demand and lighter receipts. Feed continues very scarce, although the arrival of five cars yesterday will relieve the local shortage somewhat. Straw remains at the old figures, but there is practically none to be had in the city.

Potatoes were much weaker yesterday, although the quotations were not changed. Receipts are more plentiful and the price is likely to get back to normal figures by tomorrow. Garden produce is plenty and is arriving in good condition.

In poultry the market is much firmer, with receipts only fair. The shipments of springers are especially light and with a strong demand the price holds very firm. The demand for ducks and turkeys is comparatively light and no Long Island ducks are to be found in the local market.

California peaches are out of market. A few Michigan whites are arriving and a small quantity of Ohio peaches, but they cut no figure in the quotations. One car of Michigan peaches arrived yesterday and three cars are expected today. The fruit is in fair condition and is cleaned up as fast as it arrives. Pineapples are off 25 cents a crate, with a less demand. Grapes hold at prevailing quotations, with the receipts barely large enough to meet the demand.

An advance of one-fourth cent a pound in butter was reported from Elgin headquarters Saturday and will go into effect this morning. This makes the figure for prints 22½ and 23 cents, for tubs 21½ and 22 cents, and for Ohio creamery 19½ and 20 cents a pound.

FINANCIAL.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY COPPER

This reliable stock is now being taken by the best conservative interests in the country and the bullish sentiment surrounding it undoubtedly is the forerunner of an unprecedented boom. It is from the most reliable and inner financial circles that I learn the Rockefeller interests and their many close followers are heavy purchasers. Such being the case copper is

BIG BULL MOVEMENT

To give investors a more adequate idea of the value of this stock it is only necessary to give a brief resume of the history of this giant corporation and the millions that are invested.

Capitalized at $155,000,000.

The Amalgamated Copper Company was incorporated in New Jersey April 27, 1899, for the purpose of purchasing and operating copper-producing properties. Thus far it has purchased controlling interests in a number of companies, prominent among which are the following:

Anaconda Copper Mining Co., Colorado Smelting & Mining Co., Parrot Silver & Copper Co. of New Mexico, Washoe Copper Co., Butte, Mont.; Diamond Coal & Coke Co., Diamondville, Wyo.; Big Black Foot Milling Co., Bonner, Mont.; Hennessy Mercantile Co., Butte, Mont.

NO BONDED DEBTS OR MORTGAGES.

The capital stock of the Amalgamated Co. is $155,000,000. Par value $100; all issued and full paid. The company formerly paid quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent. and ½ per cent. extra each three months, but owing to the fall in price of copper in 1901, the dividend was cut to 1½ per cent in October, 1901, and 1 per cent in January, 1902, and ½ per cent in May, and ½ per cent. quarterly since. The company has no mortgage or bonded debt.

As stated above, the Amalgamated Copper Co. as a company first paid dividends equal to 8 per cent. per year. The dividends have been reduced until now they are paying but 2 per cent. per annum. The price of the stock has dropped from 130 per share to [illegible] and is now selling at 46.

ITS GREAT EARNINGS

My object in giving you this little review of the Amalgamated Copper Co. is to show you what a good purchase the stock of this company is at present prices. Before these copper companies were amalgamated, the companies that were taken into the combine called the Amalgamated Copper Co. earned dividends of over [illegible] as individual companies. Copper then was only selling from 11c to 12c per lb. The Amalgamated Company put the price of copper up to 17c and the stock went to 130. They then depressed the price of copper to 12c and the stock dropped to [illegible]. These companies today are earning as much money as they ever earned since they first mined copper. The Amalgamated Copper Co., since its existence, has never made a statement of its affairs to the public, and it is a mystery to the stockholders and to the public where these immense earnings go. It requires but $3,000,000 per annum to pay the dividend at the present rate, 2 per cent; they are producing as much copper, working as many men, and copper is the same price now as it was when they were paying $12,000,000 per annum in dividends, so WHERE DOES THE REMAINING $10,000,000 GO? It is well known that they have spent $7,000,000 for improvements in the last year in Butte, Mont., building the largest smelting works ever built in the world.

DIVIDENDS WILL BE INCREASED

In drawing my conclusions I think the insiders and millionaires who organized the Amalgamated Copper Co. have purposely depressed the stock in order to accumulate it at these low prices, knowing that in years to come the dividends will be increased, and that it will pay more than it has ever paid before and that the stock will sell much higher. Instead of selling at its former price of 130 I fully believe in a year or two you will see it selling at 200. It is the greatest proposition before the public today for speculation in a low-priced stock. I feel confident that parties buying copper at 46 inside of six months will sell at [illegible], inside of a year [illegible], inside of two years [illegible]. I unhesitatingly say I regard Amalgamated Copper the best investment of any unlisted stock in the world.

I will carry this stock for you on a 5 per cent. margin, charging interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum on the balance.

GREED PROMPTED COLOMBIA'S ACT

Administration Refuses to Be Held Up by Cupidity of Little Republic.

MADE OFFER TO PANAMA CO.

Proposed to Ratify the Canal Treaty Immediately Provided the Company Would Divide the $40,000,000 Received from the United States.

Room 10, Postal Building, The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.

The conviction has been forced upon the officials of the government that the refusal of the Colombian congress to ratify the canal treaty was a clear case of holdup. Cupidity and not patriotism is believed to be the cause that induced the rejection of the treaty.

For some time this has been suspected. It is but a short time until the charter of the Panama Canal Company will expire unless an extension is granted, and if this country can be induced to wait a couple years and then re-open negotiations, Colombia will then have for sale not only the control of the canal strip, but the rights and finished work of the Panama Canal Company as well. Corroboration is given to this suspicion by the report that the officials of the Panama Canal Company have made to the state department to the effect that the company has recently rejected a proposition by which it should give a portion of the price of sale of its rights to the Colombian government.

The company was notified that the ratification might be accomplished without further delay if it would be willing to divide the $40,000,000 which it would receive from the United States. This proposal was turned down and the matter was reported to the state department which approved the course of the canal company. The president and Secretary Hay are determined that the United States shall not be held up by the Colombian officials and forced to pay a higher price. They believe that a cash payment of $10,000,000 and a rental of $250,000 a year is a liberal offer and before they will submit to these figures being raised they will accept the alternative that congress has placed at the disposal of the president to close the deal for the Nicaraguan route.

Secretary Hay recently instructed Minister Beaupre at Bogota to reiterate to the government of Colombia the statement made previously by him that the United States will not accept any modification or amendment of the Panama canal treaty. Mr. Beaupre was told to make it clear that President Roosevelt, by whose authority the instructions were sent, regarded the terms given by the United States as the most liberal that could be obtained by Colombia within the scope of law.

Much interest is centered in the reports that the delegates to the Colombian congress from the district of Panama had withdrawn which would be construed as the first move in the revolution that is anticipated on the part of the state of Panama. Dr. Thomas Herran, the Colombian charge here, telegraphed to the governor of Panama for information and today he received the following dispatch:

"We know nothing about the withdrawal of Panama delegation. I have been advised that Sar Obaldia has been appointed governor and is on his way with Representative Fabrega."

However, no one here will be surprised to hear at any time that the revolution has started and in such events this government will, of course, preserve a neutral attitude, but should the revolution be successful and the Panama government become firmly established, there would be little delay in negotiating a treaty for the canal.

GERMANS ANGERED BY YANKEE LUNCH WAGON

Hotel and Restaurant Keepers of Berlin Protest Against Latest Invasion.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—The latest protest against the "American invasion" of Germany comes from the Association of German Hotel Keepers. An enterprising American has announced in a Berlin paper that from October 1 he will operate in the busiest quarter of this city a number of lunch wagons, as those known in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. In these wagons he has promised to serve a first-class hot lunch, soup, roast, vegetables and dessert for 50 pfennig (about 13 cents.) Clerks and small business people have hailed this announcement with delight, but the owners of restaurants are furious, and in a long complaint to the city authorities have enumerated a long list of reasons why these lunch wagons should be forbidden.

"They will impede the traffic," the complainants say, "and ruin the health of the people of Berlin. Any one who has visited the United States knows that the Americans are a nation of dyspeptics, and this undoubtedly arises from their habit of swallowing their food standing, allowing themselves only 10 minutes to swallow a meal. The physicians of Berlin should unite in an effort to keep this pernicious habit out of Germany."

The owners of restaurants even see the German army threatened by the lunch wagons, "as dyspeptic people are apt to bear weak children, coming into the world emaciated and unable to digest their food properly on account of the sin of their fathers."

SUICIDE CAUSED PANIC.

Trolley Passengers Forced to Witness Horrible Spectacle on Elevated Road.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Charles Brunning, 42 years old, committed suicide today by jumping in front of a Third Avenue electric elevated train. He attempted suicide Friday, when he stabbed himself five times with an ice pick.

While being taken to court today, to be arraigned for the attempted suicide, Brunning overpowered the policeman and almost succeeded in hurling him before the approaching train. The officer was rescued by bystanders, but Brunning threw himself under the wheels. The sight on the station platform and the subsequent suicide of Brunning caused a panic among the hundreds of passengers.

SQUIRREL HILL FRONTAGE READY

Fine Allotment Near Country Club Holdings is Now Being Marketed.

BUILDING PROJECTS ADVANCE

The New Brilliant Cut-Off Will Be a Great Advantage to Oakmont—Large Crowds Spent the Holiday Yesterday on New Allotments.

The finest tract of Squirrel Hill frontage placed on the market for some time, is that of S. M. Willock, which is being made ready by the Land Title and Trust Company. The tract was recently purchased from John F. Steel and the J. B. Sneathen estate, and overlooks the boroughs of Homestead and Wilkinsburg. Its location is made the more advantageous by reason of its nearness to the old and new holdings of the Pittsburgh Country club, which are now being greatly improved. On three sides the property is bounded by Beechwood boulevard, Shady avenue and Phillips avenue. Two new streets have been laid out through the plan and these will be graded and paved at once. The lots will be of a large size and sold on the easy payment plan. For two months, or since the Squirrel Hill district was in its full beauty, the inquiries for large residence sites there have been larger than in any previous year and owners of desirable frontage have been making rapid sales.

Architects Again Busy.

New building projects are being pushed forward with a spirit that shows the determination of owners to get their buildings under cover by winter if possible. Architects D. H. Burnham & Co. of Chicago have plans nearly completed for the public bath house to be erected at Tenth and Bingham streets, at a cost of $100,000. Architect M. Nirdlinger is receiving estimates on the brick and steel work of the warehouse to be built by the Hausmann & Wimmer Company in Locust street. The estimated cost is $30,000. From plans by Architect F. J. Osterling the First National bank of Irwin will build a brick and stone business block to cost $25,000. The Wilhelm-Griesser Construction Company has plans nearly finished for a brewery at Clarksburg, W. Va., to cost $170,000. The Noble Stock Company, recently organized, is preparing to erect a $60,000 livery and undertaking establishment in McKeesport. Architects Robinson & Winkler have plans for a bank and office building for the First National bank of Cherry Tree, Pa., to cost $20,000. From plans being prepared by Architects Ernst & Hanselmann the English St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church will build a church and parsonage to cost $30,000.

Lloyd S. Little of the Iron City Metal Ceiling Company will shortly build a $20,000 brick and stone residence in H street, Oakmont. Architect T. H. Scott has plans for a $10,000 residence to be erected for Henry Hileman at Sheridan avenue and Jackson street, East End.

Oakmont Welcomes Brilliant Cut Off.

One of the suburbs of Pittsburgh which will be greatly benefited by the new Brilliant cut-off of the Pennsylvania railroad is Oakmont. Hitherto, in spite of its beauty and desirability for an exclusive home district, Oakmont has suffered greatly from the want of good facilities for reaching the city. Within a year the project of the Oakmont Country club to make extensive improvements of a lasting nature and the buying of a large number of home sites by prominent business men of the city has stimulated the realty market and the railroad improvement is heralded by Oakmont citizens as the very means for bringing the suburb into the notoriety it deserves. For many reasons the railroad improvement will do Oakmont more good than a street car line, for the latter, it is claimed, would attract a much cheaper lot of buyers. The property that is on the market is being laid out in acre and half-acre lots, and the residences built this summer have cost from $10,000 to $25,000 each. The prospects are excellent for a big building boom in the suburb next year, judging by the inquiries for high-class residence sites now.

Little Doing on Labor Day.

Yesterday was a red letter day in real estate, as nearly all the offices were closed for the Labor day celebration. If the weather at the opening of yesterday continues during the week more lots will be sold than for any six-day period for months. Sunday and yesterday over 10,000 people visited the two new Allegheny allotments that were opened last week, the Keating West View No. 2 lot plan of the Allegheny-Bellevue Land Company, out Perrysville avenue, which is being handled by the Freehold Real Estate Company, and the Rodenbaugh plan of the Real Estate Savings and Trust Company in Ross township.

STEAMERS TO BE REBUILT.

Two Coming from Cincinnati—Marine Ways Have Done Much Work.

Two steamers are being towed up from Cincinnati to be rebuilt at the Elizabeth marine ways. The Wash. Honshell, owned by the Huntington & St. Louis Towboat Company, was burned at Cincinnati about two weeks ago. There is enough left of the craft to make it worth while to rebuild her. The Charley Brown has her in tow. The H. S. Frisbee, for which the United States inspectors of steam vessels refused to make out papers after a recent inspection, is coming up the rivers in tow of the Boaz.

The work of repairing the towboat fleet is about completed and the marine ways, which have been running at full blast all summer, are having a less busy time.

YOUNG GREEKS ARE NOT SLAVES

George Harris Doubts Stories of Parents Selling Children into Serfdom.

IT IS NOT PRACTICED HERE

Leader of the Pittsburgh Greek Colony Tells of the Conditions That Prevail in the Employment of the Shoe Shiners Downtown.

Reports from Kalamazoo, Mich., printed in Chicago, that Greek boys are being sold by their parents in Greece into a practical bondage and slavery under masters in the United States are not believed by George Harris, one of the leading men among the Greeks in this city, and himself an employer of from 25 to 30 Greek boys in shoe blacking establishments throughout the downtown part of the city.

"There is certainly nothing of this kind practiced in Pittsburgh," he said, "and I do not believe it would be possible to carry it out anywhere else. No boy could be made a slave here. He knows he is free, and Greek boys are particularly bright and quick to learn.

"The young Greeks in Pittsburgh come here from almost anywhere. They, like other people from abroad, learn that Pittsburgh is a good place to make a living in, and if they go first to some other city they are likely to come here sooner or later. In the past three years the number of Greeks here has increased from 300 to 1,000. The boys come over with their parents, or other relatives and friends. They find out that I give work to a good many Greek boys and come to me to ask for a job.

Always Free to Leave.

"If I have a vacancy I am always glad to give them such a place. It is though always with the understanding that they can quit whenever they feel like it. The Greek boy, however, is a particularly truthful and reliable boy. If he has promised to work for a man for a year for $200 and some one else comes around later and offers him twice that much he will refuse, saying that he cannot break his contract.

"The young Greeks who work for me are well treated. Complaints of some kind had been made by some jealous person over my not treating the boys right, and about three months ago an inspector from the immigration bureau at Washington came on here. He made an investigation and reported to his chief that the charges were false and that I was the best friend the boys had.

"These boys each morning take from the cash register in the shoe blacking places 50 cents each, with which they can buy their meals for the day. They are given lodging and comfortable beds in the three houses I have rented for them, and they are paid in wages from $10 a month up, according to their ability. I have several who make $25 a month, in addition to their board and lodging, and some make as much as $50. With this comes also considerable from tips. The price for the shines is 5 cents and many give more than that. See here."

Tips Divided Monthly.

Mr. Harris opened a tin cash box under the seat of one of his establishments and showed in it fully $20 in small change.

"These are the tips for about two weeks," he continued. "At the end of the month the box will be opened and the tips divided equally.

"Lots of these boys are saving money. A number of them have given me their savings and they are on deposit in a bank.

"Boot blacking is, perhaps, not the highest kind of employment, but it must be done and does not demand a knowledge of the English language. The boys are industrious and do good work. When one of the boys has learned enough of the language to get along and becomes ambitious for better work, I do all I can to get him a better job."

George Harris is himself a Greek and once shined shoes as well as the best. He came to Pittsburgh from Chicago less than four years ago. In the meantime he has become the proprietor of a billiard and pool room in East Liberty, of one in Fifth avenue, downtown, and of various shoe blacking establishments manned by Greek boys and found all over the downtown part of the city.

"JIMMIE THE BUM" TAKES SECRET TO THE GRAVE

Two Stylish But Mysterious Women Contribute to the Burial Fund.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The mystery of "Jimmie the Bum," one of the best known of Bowery characters, is not cleared by death. As his body lies in state in a little Mulberry street undertaker's shop his identity is still as clouded as when he appeared on the Bowery 25 years ago and started the life of a drunkard. On one end of the coffin is a plate on which his former cronies are dropping dimes and quarters to pay the expense of the funeral. It was always said on the Bowery that "Jimmie the Bum" was the son of a former justice of the supreme court in Brooklyn and that the money he got every month came from the family of which he was the black sheep. Once he confided to a friend that the girl of his choice had jilted him on the eve of their wedding to marry another and from that day he did not work.

The stories of his former life were strengthened in a way by the appearance of two stylishly dressed women in the shop of the undertaker. They came through Mulberry street in a coupe. Both were veiled and each dropped a $5 bill on the plate.

Jimmie had a larger number of drinks than usual on Friday night, and when he staggered to his lodging house at No. 9 Mulberry street, long after midnight, he was too intoxicated to climb the stairs. He lay down on the sidewalk and there a policeman found him dead.

RUNAWAY GIRLS ARE STAGESTRUCK

Reach New York After Rough Experience at Sea on a Schooner.

THE WERE NOT KIDNAPED

Blanche Montgomery and Harriet Story, Daughters of Well-to-Do Norfolk Families, Explain Their Disappearance from Their Homes.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Two pretty southern girls, runaways from their homes in Norfolk, and infatuated with the idea of going upon the New York stage, came into port today on the four-masted schooner Massachusetts.

The runaways are Blanche Montgomery and Harriet Story, daughters of respectable residents of the Virginia seaport. They passed through a number of thrilling experiences of their trip northward and were terribly frightened and seasick during the great gale that nearly swamped the heavily loaded schooner one week ago. For three days they were confined to their cabins, but after they raised had a glorious time.

When off Delaware breakwater they learned that they were subject to police investigation, as the story came from Norfolk that they had been kidnaped by Capt. Lane. This they indignantly denied and were allowed to proceed on their journey.

According to their explanations of the allegations made against Capt. Lane they were allowed to go with the captain after he had received their mothers' consent, notwithstanding their fathers objected strenuously. Miss Montgomery, a handsome brunet, then made the following statement today:

"If it is running away from home to leave without our fathers' permission, then we ran away. But my mother and Mrs. Story both gave their consent to Capt. Lane, who is a perfect gentleman and old enough to be our father.

"We have long been infatuated with the idea of coming to New York, as we desire to secure engagements upon the stage."

YACHTSMAN'S DEATH REVEALS TWO FIANCES

Two New York Women Claim Tender Relationship to Victim of Marine Mishap.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Two young women claim the right to wear mourning for the late Marshall Seddens, who, with his friend, Charles F. Hinrichs, was drowned in the bay when their naphtha launch, Thetis, capsized. Each girl claims that she was the young man's fiancee. The letter found in Seddens' clothing, which caused a suspicion of foul play because it mentioned a quarrel with Oscar Parry, was from Miss Edith Snead, who says it was one of many love letters she had written to the young man to whom she was engaged. Her claim is disputed by Miss Elizabeth Mix.

There is little hope left that the mystery which surrounds the death of the youthful yachtsmen will ever be solved.

Miss Mix and her father, the Rev. William Winter Mix, formerly pastor of the Holy Apostles church, refute a statement that Miss Snead was Seddens' sweetheart. Miss Mix is now administering to the comfort of the grief-stricken mother at the Albemarle, clad in deep mourning. A dramatic scene occurred during the forenoon in the Seddens apartment, when Miss Snead called and met for the first time Miss Mix.

The Rev. Mr. Mix said: "There has been a strong attachment between my daughter and Marshall Seddens and they expected to be married."

Miss Mix will accompany the parents with the body back to Kentucky.

PENKNIFE TELLS STORY OF PITIFUL TRAGEDY

Policeman Learns of Son's Death by Finding It on Sergeant's Desk.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—"Where did this come from?" asked Patrolman Regan, as he picked up a penknife on the desk in the Flushing police station, when he reported for duty.

"Oh, it belonged to a boy who killed himself this morning," the sergeant carelessly replied.

When he recovered he told the sergeant that he had given such a knife to his son Joe, aged 16, a few days ago. Then he recognized the rest of the property and clothing taken from the boy, whose body was found in a clump of bushes near the Regan home, in Bayard avenue, as that of his son.

The boy was bright mentally but physically weak. He wanted to go to work but his father would not consent. This worried Joe a great deal and he frequently told his companions that he would never be of any use and might as well be dead. He shot himself through the heart yesterday, and his body was found today.

A Cure for Asthma

The worst cases of Asthma in the world succumb readily to the one great cure that never fails. Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann's Asthma Cure almost performs miracles.

Mr. R. M. Spencer, 2380 Vermont avenue, Toledo, O., says: "Asthma has been growing on me for 3 years, until last summer the attacks became so severe that many nights I spent half the time gasping for breath. Doctors seemed to give no relief whatever, and I felt there was no hope for me, when a drug clerk recommended your Asthma Cure. Its effect is truly magical and gives complete relief in from 2 to 5 minutes."

Mr. W. Sererus, Cavalier, N. D., says: "I was troubled with asthma for 20 years, about 8 years ago I started to use your Asthma Cure and I have not had an attack for six years."

POPE PIUS IS VISITED BY HIS THREE SISTERS

Pontiff Prevents Them from Kneeling When They Come in His Presence.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, Sept. 7.—The three sisters of Pope Pius X, who lived with him at Venice, arrived in Rome today after a separation of about six weeks. A special carriage was provided for them by the railroad company so that they traveled in a much different way from what they had been accustomed to in the past. They were received immediately by Pope and the reunion was most touching. The sisters tried to kneel, but were prevented from doing so by their brother who took them in his arms and embraced them.

One sister in a tone of disappointment, said:

"How well you look, brother. You have not needed us after all."

The pontiff replied: "I am always your Beppi, but I am doing very well here."

An hour was spent in exchanging reminiscences and making plans for the future. The three sisters are now staying in a convent until an apartment which is being arranged for them in the San Angelo bridge is ready for occupancy.

"I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day while visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain, and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change."—Miss ALICE M.
